Quite Harmonious,
Three-Cornered War,
Veterans and Farmers,
Garibaldi's Wife,
By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

A BEAUTIFUL thing is harmony, but we haven't got it in our national government. President Hoover appeared before the Senate yesterday to persuade gentlemen on the floor to ... the nation's budget. In deliberate carefully guarded terms, he suggested a sales tax which would produce the necessary income.

Shortly thereafter the Senate Finance Committee defeated the tax by a vote of 12 to 8.

GERMANY, AFTER maintaining a republic since the war, will probably try a dictator. Mr. Hitler, young Nazi leader, is the German Mussolini.

Paris, much interested in the possibilities, well may be. Dictators often agree. Mussolini gave a fine reception to the Turkish representative of Kemal Pasha.

Mussolini and Hitler might unite to concentrate attention on France.

The Germans would like to recover billions and territory given to France. Mussolini wants to make the Mediterranean "an Italian lake" and establish Italy as leader among Latin races.

A THREE-CORNERED war, Germany and Italy against France, would probably REMAIN strictly three-cornered. England would not go in. Poland and other countries generously financed by France since 1918 might be elsewhere busy.

It is an unpleasant thought to ... France, but that gigantic ... of gold in Paris might melt ... fully under such conditions. ... wonder the French keep up their fighting air fleet and submarines, always building and improving.

FIVE HUNDRED and twenty-five Pacific Coast veterans of the World War are at Washington sleeping on straw stacks, living on food supplied by two rolling kitchens from the war college, and complaining of "thin watery cabbage soup and diluted milk." They want work, even at one dollar a day.

They will stay there until the bonus is paid, "if they have to stay until 1945."

FARMERS WOULD be interested in a photograph of the veterans, camping in Washington, near the Department of Agriculture, one blowing a bugle, announcing that food is ready. Congress, police and government treat them respectfully.

The veterans, organized and WELL ORGANIZED, say what they want, and somebody listens. Farmers, not organized, get what they want, and NOBODY listens.

GARIBALDI, who established Italian nation, had a wife, Anita, whom he called "the most perfect human creature known to mankind." She went everywhere with him, even onto the battlefield, and died in his arms. One of his most disastrous defeats.

Italy has erected a fine monument to Garibaldi on Rome's Janiculum Hill, and beside his monument another is erected to his wife. Tomorrow her body, brought from Genoa, will be buried beneath her monument there, to that of her husband, showing that Italy sets a fine example.

When a man is honored, his wife should be honored as well. No man should have a monument without the name of his mother upon it, and the statement that the monument is erected in honor of HER SON.

AMERICANS WILL hear with regret of the serious illness of Cyrus H. K. Curtis, now in a Philadelphia hospital. The sudden death from heart disease of Mr. Curtis, who had gone to the hospital to be with her husband, must necessarily aggravate Mr. Curtis' condition.

Only a week ago yesterday the Mr. and Mrs. Curtis were entertaining friends on board their ... in New York Harbor, then in excellent health.

Emerson called life "a bubble blown by skepticism, and a sleep but a sleep."

ONE HUNDRED years ago, Baron Georges Leopold Chretien Frederic Dagobert Cuvier, the great French naturalist had a son worthy of his big name. The brain, weighed after death, was almost heavy enough for two ordinary men.

Now scientists celebrate Cuvier's centenary, the world stands and cares little about it. Much of what Cuvier did, carrying on the work that Aristotle began, centuries before him, will be ... when our present intellectual ... shall have been forgotten.

POPE PIUS yesterday celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday in excellent health, with a solemn mass of thanksgiving in the private chapel. His sister, Contessa Camilla Ratti, a niece and a nephew were among the invited guests.

The Pope's health remains excellent despite his confinement in the Vatican, thanks to a ... spent out of doors, with mountain climbing for his favorite exercise and diversion.

THE COUNTRY will regret the accidental death of Mr. Edward F. Swift, of Swift & Co. ... stockholders in the company, remembering that Mr. Swift's younger brothers, all with the organization started by their father, are all able men, will read with satisfaction an announcement just issued stating that the company "has free and liquid resources of over $25,000,000, no bank debts or any other obligations, except current expenses and earnings well up to dividend requirements."

Audit Witnesses Charge Threats

Removing Girl Victim From 'Hill' Blast

COUNTY GAS DECLARED WATERED

Men Called in Probe Tell Of Warnings; Jobholder Linked in Intimidation

Two witnesses in the investigation of charges that county labor and materials were used in private construction work, have been threatened, it was revealed at the resumption of the inquiry today.

The disclosures resulted in Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank, requesting the names of future witnesses be suppressed for their protection.

One of the witnesses, Edward Schuster, of 118 Clay street, Sharpsburg, a construction foreman at North County Park until three weeks ago, testified he was standing on an Etna street corner last night when a county laborer walked up to him with this warning regarding today's investigation:

"You watch out what you say down there or it won't be good for you."

Another witness who testified last Friday had received a threat in a milk bottle, Leo G. Riordan, of the county investigation division, declared.

One of Riordan's sub-investigators intimated during the questioning of Schuster that the witness' mother also had been intimidated with threats of harm to her son if he testified "too freely."

Frank said an immediate investigation of the threats would be made.

WATERED GAS

Undaunted by the threat, Schuster testified that gasoline provided for the tractors in North Park contained so much water that it was necessary to stop the tractors four times a day and drain out the water from the gasoline line.

Asked by Auditor M. C. Conick, of Main & Co., where the gasoline had been obtained, Schuster replied:

"I understood from the other side of the tubes."

Schuster also charged that a man named McFarland, whom he identified as the North Park golf professional, was carried on the books by the timekeeper, William Walters, even when he was not there.

He told of how county employes burned a large supply of hay, and charged that the "McKinney" barn in the park was rebuilt at considerable cost, then part of it torn down and moved to augment another barn.

PAINT DISAPPEARS

Schuster testified paint had disappeared from the county paintshop at North Park and tractors used there had been left in the park without covering most of the winter.

He also told of another employe, known to him only as "Dorrier," charging that the park's payroll was "being padded."

A third witness, whose name was withheld after the inquiry learned of threats against the others, testified that the county quarried 700 cubic yards of stone in North Park at a cost of approximately $14,000, which he said was five times the price which would have been charged for a better quality of stone delivered at the park by a commercial quarry.

The first witness this morning was Harry G. Keil, of Allison Park.

GRAVEL HAULED

Keil said that in March, 1931, he saw county trucks moving up a steep hill toward Sample station off Babcock boulevard. Truckmen told him, he said, they were taking sand and gravel to the property of Joseph Hillman, a county employe, who was building a combination home and office.

He also testified that county tank trucks carried water to Lorch greenhouses for five months and that county lumber was used to build a ramp from which they unloaded their cargoes. He charged the water line, cut to permit road repairs, could have been easily and cheaply fixed and the hauling of the water thus eliminated.

BILLION TAX BILL SENT TO PARLEY

Conferees Named to Iron Out Differences; Expect Agreement During Week

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP.)—Congress sped to conclusion of its greatest peace-time task today—that of balancing off a gaping Treasury deficit to preserve the American dollar from foreign attacks pictured by President Hoover.

The billion-dollar revenue bill, archstone of the bridge over the treasury gap, was returned to the House again and immediately directed to a conference between the two branches to get final agreement on the legislation.

The House acted unanimously, not instructing its conferees to stand by this or that provision of the original House bill. This will expedite action by the conference.

MEETING CALLED

Shortly after the measure was sent to conference, Chairman Smoot, of the Senate Finance Committee, had a talk with Acting Chairman Crisp, of the House Ways and Means Committee, and called the opening meeting of the conference committee for 9:30 a. m., tomorrow. Smoot said morning and afternoon meetings would be held, Smoot said.

"I hope we can finish up the job before the end of the week."

Smoot and other leaders were hopeful of an adjournment of Congress by the opening of the national conventions, but Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, expressed serious doubt that this could be accomplished.

Another attempt to revive the general manufacturers' sales tax meanwhile was promised by Representative Britten (Rep.), of Illinois. He said he would "use

TAXES HERE UP $12,000,000

Allegheny County will pay about $12,000,000 additional revenue into the federal treasury on the basis of proportionate population as a result of the tax bill adopted last night by the Senate in event it becomes law.

This county has roughly about 1 per cent of the nation's population and the sum the tax bill is estimated to raise is $1,238,500,000.

Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company, indicated that the 3 per cent tax on gross receipts of privately-owned electric light companies would not result in withdrawal of the Duquesne Light Company's proffer of a rate reduction.

COMPANY'S TAX

Mr. Phillips said:

"Our negotiations with the city naturally have been delayed by uncertainty as to what action Congress, and possibly the state, might take in taxing utilities."

"The Senate bill will mean the Duquesne Light Company will have to pay about $850,000

Will Rogers Boom Launched in Florida

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., June 1.—(AP.)—Petitions were circulated here today for drafting Will Rogers, the humorist, as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The circulators said they are in earnest and there's no joke about it. They have made their plans to forward copies of the petition to Rogers and the Democratic national convention.

100 Pct. Tax on Profits Of Racketeers Provided

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(INS.)—The most drastic blow the government has yet dealt to end the reign of the racketeer was contained in the billion dollar tax bill which went to conference between the Senate and House today.

This was a clause in the income tax section providing for confiscation of the profits of criminals by a 100 per cent tax on incomes derived through the "willful violation of criminal laws."

Sponsored by Senator Glenn (Rep.), of Illinois, the confiscatory tax was adopted by the Senate by an overwhelming vote. Glenn said:

"This tax will change the position of our government from that of a partner in vice and crime to that of a confiscator of the profits of vice and crime.

"A great cry has gone up among the law-abiding people of the Middle West, and particularly the State of Illinois and the City of Chicago, that the federal government should not share in the profits of the criminals. This tax will amend that situation.

"Instead of saying that the federal government shall be a partner in rum running, beer rings, narcotic selling and gambling this tax will enable the government to confiscate every dollar of such profits that can be reached."

British Derby Won By 100 to 6 Shot

April the Fifth, an Outsider Owned By Actor, Victor

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service.

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 1.—(INS.)—Derby Day ran true to form today when April the Fifth, an outsider owned by Tom Walls, British actor, romped home the winner before a madly cheering crowd of 1,000,000, including King George, Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales.

H. H. the Aga Khan's Dastur finished second and Lord Rosebery's Miracle third.

April the Fifth paid 100 to 6. Dastur was worth 18 to 1 to its backers and Miracle paid 100 to 9.

The outcome of the race was a surprise to the dopesters, but not to those who realized that in all its 153 years of running, the derby has rarely been won by the favorite.

This year the favored entry was Orwell, owned by the Anglo-American millionaire, Washington Merrit Grant Singer. It failed to place.

In addition to Orwell, there were three other horses with American connections entered in the classic, and all failed to finish among the first five. They were

Capt. Dollar's Son Found Dead at Home

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 1.—(AP.)—Death has taken another of the famous Dollar family, shipping magnates. A. Melville Dollar, 52, head of the Canadian-American Shipping Company, was found dead last night, apparently of heart disease, in a garage at his home.

He had been under treatment for a heart ailment for two years. His death came 15 days after that of his father, Capt. Robert Dollar.

Only Slight Showers To Break Drought

No material relief from the drought is in sight for Pittsburgh, W. S. Brotzman, local forecaster, said today, although he predicted showers for this afternoon and tonight. The rainfall, he said, would be slight. A storm area gave Indianapolis an inch of rain, but the weather map showed Ohio getting only light showers.

Fire Bars Beaver Court Spectators

PINCHOT, G.O.P., IN RELIEF PACT

HARRISBURG, June 1.—(INS.)—The conference of Gov. Pinchot and Republican organization spokesmen adjourned today with all agreed upon the need for a special session of the legislature and upon a tentative program of legislation for unemployment relief.

Details of the plan will be announced later, conferees stated. The group will convene again next Monday afternoon at 3:30.

With the Governor were Attorney General William A. Schnader, Secretary of Revenue Clyde L. King, and Dr. E. B. Logan, the budget secretary.

The legislative group was headed by Gen. Edward Martin, State Treasurer and Republican state chairman. It included Lieut. Gov. E. C. Shannon, James M. Hazlett, Philadelphia, chairman, representing William S. Vare; Charles A. Waters, Auditor General; Edwin R. Cox, president of the Philadelphia City Council; State Senators Frank E. Baldwin, of Potter County; James J. Coyne, of Allegheny; Frank B. Scott, of Center, and James J. McClure, of Delaware, and Representatives Philip Sterling, of Philadelphia; Joseph G. Steedle, of Pittsburgh, and Grover C. Talbot, of Delaware County.

Ingalls to Resign Air Post in Navy

New Taxes in Senate Bill And Estimates on Revenue

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP.)—The revised Senate revenue bill carries the following new taxes and estimated yield, based on the original figures of the Treasury:

INCOME TAX

EXCISE TAXES

STAMP TAXES

all kinds from stock market deals to routine personal bank checks.

CONFEREES NAMED

So determined was the Senate to make enactment of the bill its answer to all doubts and fears of the nation's stability that Vice President Curtis even named the men who will confer with members of the House on adjusting the bill. Senators Smoot, Watson and Reed, Republicans, Harrison and King, Democrats, were given this task.

Earlier Curtis had adopted "railroading" tactics to rush the finish, cutting into debate to put the vote on proposed amendments, slamming down the gavel and announcing them defeated before the members could get their breath. It fitted in completely with the mood of the chamber.

Crowded galleries hung on to the last, many members of the House staying by to see the task done. President Hoover, who had put in as long a day as any, stayed up until midnight, but then certain that it was all over, retired for the night.

AMELIA DANCES WITH WALES

LONDON, June 1.—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, the first woman to fly the Atlantic, proved her prowess on a ballroom dance floor last night. She was one of the most popular guests at a hospital charity ball and she agreed today that she had a great time.

Shortly after her arrival she was escorted to the table of the Prince of Wales and after talking pleasantly for a few moments, the couple swung away on the dance floor.

So pleased with the flier's dancing was the Prince that he came back for more, and twice again the heir to the British throne asked Mrs. Putnam for dances.

The blonde aviatrix witnessed the running of the derby at Epsom Downs today as the guest of Lord and Lady Astor. Immediately after the race she returned to London with the Astors for tea at the House of Commons.

Mrs. Putnam will leave for Cherbourg, France, tomorrow to meet her husband, George Putnam, the New York publisher, upon his arrival from America.

MAYORS HEAR PLEA FOR U. S. AID IN CRISIS

Detroit Executive Opens Economic Parley With Demand for Employment

By CARL L. TURNER
International News Service.

DETROIT, June 1.—Mayors of many of America's greatest cities met here today for a declaration against economic affliction among their people.

Called together to form a concerted demand for relief of the unemployed, 27 mayors or their representatives heard Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit strike the keynote of the conference. He said:

"We fail in administering good government if we permit the present widespread distress to damage the moral qualities of our people.

URGES U. S. ACTION

"The federal government alone represents all the people, all of our resources, all the combined strength and power of the richest nation on earth.

"Therefore, we urge direct relief to our unemployed faced with starvation, eviction and immeasurable misery. We urge a national plan to set our idle men to work and thereby redistribute purchasing power, and we propose fiscal aid under proper conditions from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

WALKER'S PLEA

Mayor Murphy then introduced Mayor James J. Walker of New York, who spoke on "The Principles Underlying Federal Relief." The New York executive asserted:

"The federal government is trying to retrench, but on such a way as to be a throwback on the cities, saddling the cities with obligations which belong to the federal government.

"What we should do here is to start a great co-operative movement among cities for a united front and attracting public attention to the necessity of the federal government taking the responsibility which belongs to it."

On the proposed $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan speakers were to be Mayors George Welsh, Grand Rapids; John T. O'Connor, Knoxville, Tenn.; S. F. Shively, Duluth, and John S. Herron, president of Pittsburgh's City Council who represented Mayor Charles H. Kline.

GROCERS FAVOR WORK LOAN

Realizing the failure of local-level efforts to revive employment, the Retail Grocers Association of Allegheny County today was on record indorsing the proposed $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan to create employment on a national basis through construction of necessary public works.

The appeal was made at the executive committee meeting last night. The association, numbering 900 independent grocers, joined with more than a score of other local trade, civic and industrial groups in memorializing Congress to take immediate action.

Secretary J. V. Loughran said copies of the memorial will be sent by President Charles Wolff to Senators David A. Reed and James J. Davis and congressional members from this district.

Federal Loan Only Hope In Jobless Crisis, Colby Declares

Universal Service

NEW YORK, June 1.—Bainbridge Colby, former secretary of state, discussing unemployment in a national broadcast last night, declared the failure of the federal government to meet the problem it presented was threatening the collapse of public power in the United States.

Mr. Colby spoke from station WABC over the coast-to-coast facilities of the Columbia Broadcasting System. He declared the nation confronted an emergency greater than that which existed during the World War.

He urged passage of the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan and the inauguration of a vast program of public works by Congress as one of the essential steps in national relief. He also advocated a sales tax.

In the course of his talk, Mr. Colby said:

"The paramount duty which rests upon us as a civilized nation is to provide shelter and sustenance for the unemployed.

"It is estimated that they number in excess of eight millions, not including other millions who have been reduced to privation and suffering by their inability to get more than part-time employment.

"These unfortunates are the victims of a faulty industrial and economic organization for which they are not responsible. The duty to go to their relief cannot wait upon a correction of the basic conditions of American life. There will be time for that later.

"The problem of the unemployed is tonight's shelter and tomorrow's food. We cannot wait until someone devises a plan for self-sustaining or self-liquidating relief.

"The duty to feed the hungry, to shelter the homeless, cannot be postponed.

"Nor will the task be performed if undertaken upon an inadequate scale. To do it partly is not to do it. Private charity, or local agencies of relief, cannot do it. Only the national resources are equal to the task. The credit of the states and municipalities is so burdened already by the hopelessly extravagant cost of government that their existing load is more than they can carry.

"The federal government in its ravening search for new taxation has invaded the fields hitherto reserved for the states and municipalities. It is grotesque that in addition to these raids it should try to shift upon the localities the added burden of unemployment relief.

"This duty can only be discharged by the nation."

Reed Blocks Move To Aid Bonus Loans

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP.)—Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, today blocked Senate consideration of a proposal to permit loans on veterans' service certificates any time after issued.

Reed objected when Senator Barkley (Dem.), of Kentucky, the sponsor, sought unanimous consent to take it up. He asserted it would add $70,000,000 to the cost of caring for veterans. The present law allows the certificates to be used for loans up to 50 per cent of their value two years after their issuance.

"We are continuing our negotiations with City Solicitor C. A. Weschmidt, however, and hope to have a definite proposal within a month."

The city rejected the company's original proposal averaging about 10 cents a month to the ordinary consumer and has submitted counter proposals.

The Pittsburgh Motor Club placed the gasoline used in Allegheny County last year at 154,423,762 gallons. The one cent federal tax imposed would mean a charge of $1,544,237 a year against autoists. The state tax is now three cents.

The two-cent tax on checks will mean an added cost to residents of this county of about $900,000, according to banker estimates. The transit department of the Mellon National Bank placed the checks clearing daily in the county at 150,000.

Added taxes on big incomes, postal rates which are raised to 3 cents on first-class letters, 10 per cent on all amusement tickets over 40 cents, toll telephone calls are among other means of revenue provided in the bill.

In the Pittsburgh postal district, it is estimated, revenues will increase $100,000 a month due to the 3-cent rate on first class mail.

LABOR INDORSES GARNER PLAN FOR RELIEF

...sists $100,000,000 ... Short of Need for D... Aid; Eight Million Jo...

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June ... (INS.) — Complete indorsement of the Garner relief program was given today by organized labor.

W. C. Hushing, legislative representative of the A. F. of L., told the House Ways and Means Committee the bill was a national necessity, but that the $100,000,000 for direct relief should be increased to $600,000,000. He also warned there must be a limitation as to days and hours of labor on the public works projects to prevent them from being pushed through hastily and increasing unemployment.

"President Green has estimated that if work were limited on these projects to 35 hours a week there would be no unemployment."

EARNINGS REDUCED

He said labor has been trying to impress upon Congress for years the fact that the earnings of working people have been reduced $11,000,000,000 a year, he continued.

"Little attention has been paid to us. The only relief has been to big business and the banks. Nothing has been done to relieve the unemployed except to give them a few million bushels of wheat.

"The Garner bill now gives some hope. It is absolutely necessary that it be passed. It should have been done long ago."

Hushing said his figures indicated 8,000,000 wholly unemployed, excluding so-called white collar men, and that 16,000,000 are in need of direct relief. He asked that Congress place adequate safeguards around the rivers and harbors and roads project to prevent contractors from employing at "starvation wages."

FOES TO BE HEARD

With Hushing's testimony, the committee was to hear opponents of the program. Only a few witnesses were to appear in opposition.

Among those preparing to appear in the program were Cameron Williams, Southern Cotton Shippers Association; J. M. Carroll, professor of economics, Bates College, Lewiston, Me., and R. V. Robertson, president, American Short Line Railroad Association.

With the measure providing billion dollars additional for Reconstruction Finance Corporation with blanket power to lend to public or private agencies, Williams was expected to attack the location of funds to bolster farmers' co-operative marketing agencies.

NEW PROPOSALS

A half dozen specific proposals for revision of the Garner program had emerged from the day's hearings. These included:

Requirements that all government contracts be based upon a five-day week and six-hour day, indorsed by Representative Guardia, (Rep.), of New York and Hu...ing.

Proposal by the Rev. ... O'Gra..., secretary of the National Council of Catholic Cities, that the $100,000,000 be increased and placed in the hands of the Children's Bureau instead of the President.

Inclusion of $22,500,000 housing program in public works section, urged by Representatives James, (Rep.), of Michigan, and McSwain, (Dem.), South Carolina, for Military Affairs Committee.

Specific provision for loaning funds to limited dividend organizations for building homes, especially in razing districts in cities.

HITLER MAY DROP FIGHT TO BLOCK NEW GERMAN CABINET

LEADER OF NAZI FORCES YIELDS IN STAND

Neutral Policy Towards Proposed Government of Von Papen Held Likely

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, June 1.—(INS.)—Wild rioting between political extremists broke out in the center of Berlin this afternoon as Franz von Papen, new chancellor of the Reich, strove to form a national concentration cabinet composed of junkers from the old monarchist days.

Several persons were reported shot and wounded when police battled Communist rioters. Many of the demonstrators were arrested.

BERLIN, June 1.—(AP.)—Adolf Hitler, stocky, blue-eyed former Austrian army corporal who last night threatened to block the efforts of swanking Generals of the Kaiser's old Imperial army in their efforts to form a new German cabinet, was inclined to change his mind today, leaders of his National Socialist party indicated.

Hitler's headquarters announced late last night that the Nazis would not support a cabinet formed by Franz von Papen, former officer of the general staff of the imperial army, who was selected yesterday by President Paul von Hindenburg, former field marshal, to succeed Dr. Heinrich Bruening as chancellor.

NEUTRALITY POLICY

Today, however, later counsels in the Nazi camp tended toward a policy of neutrality toward a Von Papen cabinet until such time as new general elections are most convenient, which, it was said, would probably be after harvest time when the farmers would have time to listen to political speeches.

As a result of the new Nazi attitude, the Von Papen cabinet seemed today to have a chance of governing Germany, at least for a short time. The newspapers dubbed it a "feudal" cabinet on account of the prospect of its being dominated by members of the old German nobility.

MILITARY ATTACHE

Von Papen was military attache at the German embassy in Washington during the early part of the World War and was recalled by the Kaiser at the request of the American government for his military and naval activities.

He is a member of the Centrist (Catholic) party, but belongs to the army branch and the belief prevailed here today that he would not be able to count on the votes of the 68 Centrists in the Reichstag because most of them were supporters of Chancellor Bruening, who also is a Centrist.

OUTSIDER WINS BRITISH DERBY

Celebrator and Corcy, owned by Richard Croker, son of the old-time Tammany Hall leader, and Totaig, the property of Victor Emanuel.

Despite the fact that the average Briton had less to risk in the way of a "flutter on his fancy" this year, Orwell probably carried as much money on his back as any Derby favorite in the more than a century and a half since the race was first run.

Once again, as in 152 years in the past, Britain forgot her cares and troubles in the crash of the thundering hoofs.

King George, resplendant in gray topper and pearly spats, with members of the royal family trooping along behind him, gave the great annual holiday its traditional picturesque send-off with a wave of his hand and a smile.

Two hours before post time, His Majesty arrived at Epsom Downs in his maroon limousine.

ROYAL PARTY

In the royal party were Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, Prince George, the Duke of Gloucester, the Duke and Duchess of York and the Earl and Countess of Harewood—King George's son-in-law and daughter.

They took their place in the royal inclosure. The mammoth crowd—one of the largest turnouts in derby history—paid brief obeisance to majesty and then turned back to the affairs at hand.

Skies which threatened rain during the morning cleared shortly after noon and by post time a brilliant sun shone down on the motley crowd.

Two Brothers Head Ohio U. P. College

ROBERT N. MONTGOMERY

J. K. Montgomery's Sons to Carry on At Muskingum

The work to which their father devoted the last 27 years of his life will be carried on by two brothers as a result of the election today of Robert N. Montgomery as president and John Knox Montgomery Jr. as executive vice president of Muskingum College, New Concord, O.

J. K. Montgomery

The selection of the brothers was made today at the annual meeting of the board of trustees of Muskingum College, of which the Rev. Dr. James E. Best, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg, is chairman.

Known throughout the United States for building up one of the leading denominational colleges, Dr. Montgomery died December 30. John Knox Montgomery, Jr., who had returned to the institution a few months earlier after serving as secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association in Butler, Pa., and other cities, was chosen acting president. Dr. Robert N. Montgomery, newly elected president, has occupied a similar office for two years at Tarkio College, Tarkio, Mo., another United Presbyterian institution.

The Montgomery brothers during the current year, while heading Tarkio and Muskingum colleges, each added 25 per cent to the enrollment, despite unsettled conditions. It was announced the endowment funds of both colleges have been substantially increased. Tarkio dedicated a new main building, funds for which were secured under the leadership of Dr. Robert N. Montgomery.

PRESBYTERIANS QUELL CHURCH RULE REVOLT

Harmony Gained by Avoiding Disputed Economic Issues; Election, Adjournment Near

DENVER, June 1.—(AP.)—With uprisings quelled, controversies settled and the existing organization of church government approved, commissioners of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. prepared today to elect board members and adjourn the one hundred and forty-fourth General Assembly.

The closing day of the assembly found elders and ministers solidly behind the general council of the church and favoring continued connection with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. These two questions were among the most important the commissioners were called upon to answer.

A vigorous but vain attempt to bring about a reorganization of the General Council resulted in a complete routing of revolters against the present order of church government.

A final shot was fired in the fundamentalist-modernist fight when the Rev. H. McAllister Griffiths, of Philadelphia, read into the record a protest against the action of the church in refusing to sever relations with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ.

The report of the committee on social and industrial relations which was heralded as containing "dynamite," proved to be a mere statement of principles and aims and was adopted without a dissenting voice.

U. P.'s Discuss Revival Proposed at Assembly

BEAVER, Pa., June 1.—(AP.)—Delegates to the seventy-fourth General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of North America returned home today to sound out synods and presbyteries on unity and other issues.

The assembly closed yesterday after electing Dr. J. I. McCreight, of Muskingum College, New Concord, O., as vice moderator, and hearing a seven-fold objective of the church outlined by Moderator Charles S. Cleland, of Philadelphia.

The program proposed a renewed loyalty to Christ, an awakened and reconsecrated church a revival in Bible study and prayer, return of religion to the home, a real passion and program for soul winning, an aroused interest in missionary work, and new devotion to Christian ideals and principles of the nation.

Dr. William J. Reid, Pittsburgh, was retained as chairman of the committee on Presbyterian unity; W. F. Rotzler, New Brighton, was named on the board of American missionaries; Dr. Charles D. Fulton, Beaver, was named representative to the Alliance of Churches, and J. O. Campbell, Beaver, was named delegate to the Belfast conference.

'HYMIE' JURY UNCOMPLETED

CLEVELAND, June 1.—(AP.)—The slow process of seating a jury to hear the second trial of "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, charged with the murder of former Councilman William E. Potter, may not be completed until tomorrow, in the opinion of Common Pleas Judge Harrison W. Ewing.

Judge Ewing said a second venire of 75 might have to be issued in addition to the 75 already called. Nineteen talesmen were examined as the trial started yesterday, and seven of them, four men and three women, were tentatively seated.

Assistant County Prosecutor Frank T. Cullitan indicated in his questioning of veniremen that the state again will attempt to send Martin to the electric chair as an aider and abettor in the murder. Each prospective juryman was asked if he would vote for a death sentence on circumstantial evidence "if the testimony is strong enough."

MINERS STONED AT OHIO PIT

COLUMBUS, O., June 1.—(AP.)—Speeding through a barrage of rocks, 21 miners entered Wolf Run mine in Jefferson County today to resume operations after a two-month layoff caused by a strike of bituminous coal miners in Ohio. At the Deep Shaft mine at Unionvale, Harrison County, the whistle blew, but no workmen reported.

A number of automobiles were stoned as they passed through 300 alleged striking mine pickets at the entrance of Wolf Run Mine, but only two windshields were shattered. No one was injured.

Sheriff W. J. Yost, of Jefferson County, six deputies and four National Guard observers were at the mine. They reported that a number of other workmen were turned back by the rock barrage.

The Deep Shaft Mine of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Coal Company of Cleveland had announced it would reopen today, but no workmen appeared and no pickets were on the roads. Officials said they would try to open tomorrow.

WALKER LINKED WITH BONDS OF BIDDER

Seabury Claims Mayor Held Securities of Concern Awarded N. Y. City Job

NEW YORK, June 1.—(AP.)—Samuel Seabury, at a hearing of the Hofstadter Committee today, introduced testimony indicating that Mayor James J. Walker had owned bonds of the Reliance Bronze and Steel Company which received a $41,556.40 city contract.

Seabury declared that in his opinion that constituted grounds for the Mayor's removal from office.

Seabury said that 10 bonds of the Reliance Bronze and Steel Company were included in $26,500 worth of securities that witnesses have testified the Mayor received from J. A. Sisto while Sisto's company was interested in the promotion of a taxicab company.

WALKER'S DEFENSE

Walker had testified the securities represented his profits from a pool which he was invited to join about the time he first met Sisto at a banquet in Atlantic City in 1929. He denied the securities came from Sisto and he testified he vetoed a taxicab control bill that would have brought profits of $1,000,000 a year to the taxicab company in which Sisto's brokerage house was interested.

Harry J. Rosenbloom, treasurer of the Reliance Bronze and Steel Company, testified that on January 9, 1931, the company was awarded a city contract for 104 bronze traffic standards for use on Fifth avenue. The original estimate for the standards, he said, was $41,558.40.

Seabury called to the attention of the committee Mayor Walker's testimony that some time after he received the $26,500 in securities, including Seabury said, the 10 Reliance bonds—he turned them over to Mrs. Walker.

COUPONS TRACED

He then introduced documentary evidence indicating that on December 29, 1930, 10 coupons of the Reliance bonds, valued at $30 each, were cashed in a bank account belonging to the Mayor and Mrs. Walker and that subsequently 10 more Reliance coupons of the same value also were deposited.

An analysis of Mayor Walker's three bank accounts from January 1, 1926, the date on which he first took office as Mayor, to December 1, 1931, was placed in evidence just before the committee adjourned for lunch.

The analysis, as prepared by James T. Ellis, an accountant in the employ of the committee, showed total credits of $307,665.53 and withdrawals of $285,712.15 with a balance on December 1, 1931, of $21,893.38.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 1.—(AP.)—The motion picture studio where Greta Garbo has been employed for the past several years apparently has concluded the film star really meant business when she said: "I tank I go back to Sweden." The studio has presented her with a traveling bag.

Miss Garbo's contract officially ended today, although she made her last appearance before the camera with the completion of the picture "As You Desire Me."

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios had sought to have the Swedish star sign a renewal of her contract. She announced she preferred farm life in her home land to Hollywood.

Her manager announced last Sunday the actress would leave Hollywood within 10 days for Sweden for an "indefinite stay."

Film producers list Miss Garbo as the film's greatest box office attraction today. Whether the studios had failed to meet her salary demands was not revealed.

HOOVER TAKES STANDAGA" RUM P

Leans Toward Enfo... Plank Like That of ... After Pressure of Drys

of National News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Hoover has definitely turned thumbs down on the proposal to write into the Republican platform a straight out re-submission plank o... prohibition, and is now inclined to stand for re-election on ... simple law enforcement plan similar to that of 1928, according to word privately circulated among the drys today.

Two weeks ago the re-submissionists were confident they had Mr. Hoover on their side, and that he would accept a plank committing the party to a new test of the popularity of the Eighteenth Amendment. Such a plank was drawn up by Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, and supported by other Cabinet members and influential party figures.

PRESSURE OF DRYS

Reports that the President had been won over, however, galvanized the drys into immediate action, and for the past 10 days there has been a steady pressure exerted on Mr. Hoover to "say it ain't true." This pressure has been directed through personal conference and in a deluge of warning letters and telegrams from dry throughout the country.

Twice during this period, Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, has been called into consultation by Mr. Hoover, notwithstanding the coolness that has existed between them for many months. Borah is a consistent dry, and strongly opposes any temporizing with the prohibition problem in the party platform. It is understood the Idahoan is drafting a tentative plank at the President's request. The Borah plank will afford the anti-drys scant comfort. Also, Postmaster General Brown is redrafting his plank in an effort to make it more to the liking of the drys.

From the White House itself there is nothing but silence on the whole prohibition question and how it is to be dealt with at Chicago. The callers who have discussed the subject with Mr. Hoover have been asked not to discuss the matter outside.

THREAT GIVEN HOOVER

It is known, however, that the drys have urged Mr. Hoover to remain uncompromisingly dry not only because of their own convictions in the matter, but also on the grounds of political expediency.

One visitor upon whose advice Mr. Hoover has been wont to lean in other years is reported to have told him:

"Why, Mr. President, the only bloc in the country from which you can expect 100 per cent support is the dry bloc. Offend that bloc and you do it at enormous risk."

While the logic of such an argument is said to have impressed Mr. Hoover, there is, nevertheless, the outstanding fact that a majority of the delegates that will make up the Chicago convention are inclined to some modification of the party's hitherto bone-dry stand.

How to placate them still remains a ticklish question.

No Ham in Sandwiches At Parks, McGovern Fears

Sportservice, Inc., has been awarded the contract for the operation of the concessions in the county parks, although Commissioner Charles C. McGovern declared the promised return to the county was so high that the quality of the sandwiches dispensed by the concessionaire was threatened.

After a $25,000 bond for performance of contract was provided late yesterday by a bonding company, McGovern expressed his opposition to the high rate of return. Regarding the sandwiches, he said:

"The county might get the money but the people won't get the ham."

Representatives of the company assured the Commissioners that satisfactory service would be given. The return to the county in the North Park is to be 15.5 per cent on the first $10,000 and 18.4 per cent on all above. In the South Park it is to be 20.5 per cent on the first $10,000 and 22.5 per cent on the excess.

MOB LYNCHES PRISONER

PRINCETON Ky June 1 (AP)—Walter Merrick was removed from the county jail by a mob late last night and his body was found hanging from a tree three miles from here today. The lynching party entered Jailer Cliff Jones' room, bound him, took his keys and departed with the prisoner without arousing any citizens.

Merrick was to have been tried June 13 on a charge of dynamiting the store of M. P. Poole at Hopson, near here last February. P. Poole was seriously injured and was in a hospital at Nashville, Tenn., two months. A boy near the building suffered a broken arm because of the blast.

Intense feeling over the explosion caused fear of mob violence after Merrick was arrested in February, but was believed to have subsided.

YOU CAN'T KEEP SUDS LIKE THAT

BUT that was before they used the New Oxydol

● Maybe you've had this experience: most women have. You stir up suds in dishpan or laundry tub, only to see them ball up or fade away when you put in greasy dishes or dirty clothes.

But that doesn't happen with the New Oxydol. Sprinkle this soap in and see the amazing result. Rich—fluffy—permanent suds. Suds that soak the dirt out and keep it out—suds that don't collapse, letting the dirt fall back on the clothes. Suds that soak clothes gleaming white—that make dishes sparkling clean—that leave no scum.

Oxydol makes 50% more suds—that's why this safe, clean-smelling soap can do so much, even in the hardest water—and all water hardens when you put in dirty clothes or greasy dishes. Try the New Oxydol. You'll bless the day you learned its name.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works shall be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to enter into a contract with a consulting Engineer or Consulting Engineering Corporation for the making of a Pitometer Water Waste Survey, under the supervision of the Bureau of Water, of that section of the distribution system of Pittsburgh served by Boston Run Reservoir, excepting the Squirrel Hill Area, and to furnish all the required assistants and equipment and to make a final and complete report for a sum not to exceed six thousand ($6,000.00) dollars in accordance with an Act of Assembly entitled, "An Act for the Government of Cities of the Second Class," approved the 5th day of March, A. D. 1901, and the various supplements and amendments thereto and the ordinances of Councils in such cases made and provided, same to be chargeable to Account No. 1781.

Section 2. That the sum of six thousand ($6,000.00) dollars, or so much of same as may be necessary, is hereby set apart from Code No. 1782, Pitometer Surveys for the payment of payments for the performance of the above mentioned work.

Section 3. That any ordinance or part of ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this ordinance.

Passed in Council May 23, 1932.
Approved May 27, 1932.
CHARLES H. KLINE, Mayor.
Recorded in O. B. Vol. 44, page 574.

PARLEY LOOMS ON ECONOMICS

Associated Press.

Joint search by the United States and Europe for a way to stabilize world commodity prices by international action was in prospect today.

The United States has agreed to attend an international economic conference in London to consider methods whereby prices might be improved as a remedy for the universal economic plight.

The date of the conference and its program have not been announced, but American acceptance of the invitation from Great Britain was given with the understanding that political questions such as war debts and reparations would be barred.

In France, former Premier Edouard Herriot, who is likely to head the new cabinet there indicated a possible French attitude in forthcoming international negotiations.

Dominating points in his program, he said, were "political relaxation and economic understanding abroad." France does not wish to base her prosperity on the misery of any other people, he said.

PARK 'ALL WET' AS BOATMAN

As a sea-going district attorney Andred T. Park has proved himself a poor swimmer and a poor navigator, though cool-headed in emergencies. His assistant, M. Barney Cohen, has permanently disqualified himself as a news photographer.

It happened on French Creek near Cochranton Park and a group from his office were spending Memorial Day at the cottage of First Assistant George F. P. Langfitt.

Park had a new outboard motor. He was trying it out for speed with Langfitt as a passenger. Cohan, on a pier, was poised for an action picture as the boat whizzed past.

As the boat neared the pier, Park swung the tiller hard over and the boat capsized. The district attorney cannot swim. He clung to the boat and Langfitt paddled in, pushing boat and prosecutor.

Cohen forgot to take the picture.

Quality First SALES at Horne's

THE ECONOMY of quality is being stressed here daily in support of the growing public sentiment against the over-emphasis of price and the deterioration of standards which has come with it. Good merchandise is so reasonably priced today that one cannot afford to buy any other kind. The more urgent one's need for careful spending, the more certain one must be of the quality of every purchase.

It is the policy of the Joseph Horne Co. to sell only First Quality merchandise, at all times, regardless of price.

Towel Time!

Hunt's talk, the first of a series planned from various points throughout the world during his tour, reveals his impressions of a changing Japan. During the next six months, his voice will be heard from Shanghai, Manila, Bangkok, Cairo, Rome, Berlin, Paris and London, discussing foreign personalities. Tonight's address was previously scheduled for May 25 but postponed because of mechanical difficulties.

How do the Broadway columnists gather their news? This question is answered on WJAS at 5:15, when Paul Yawitz, whose column is appearing in the Sun-Telegraph while he is pinch-hitting for Walter Winchell, comes to the microphone during "Bill Schudt's Going to Press" broadcast.

Fan Fare

The Gordon sisters are particularly talented in playing the roles of shrewd young country women on radio's rural sketches. Grace Gordon is heard as Bessie Stevens in "Thompkins Corners," while her sister Elsie Mae, who once played the same part, is heard in a similar character in another NBC rural sketch. When Grace was called upon to fill Elsie Mae's part in "Thompkins Corners," she had no difficulty in duplicating exactly her sister's voice and inflections.

Grace Gordon

Bing Crosby is one of radio's better golfers . . . and Singin' Sam occasionally gets into the 70s . . . Reports have it the network radio is seriously thinking about a program series about itself. The series would consist of a quarter-hour weekly outlining the week's schedule with intermittant chats about radio entertainers . . . Elizabeth Barthell, CBS Southern soprano heard on WJAS, has become her own accompanist, which isn't so startling, because she got her start in radio as a staff pianist in Nashville . . . Virginia Gardiner is an adopted princess of the Blackfoot tribe.

And now the suggestion comes forth that NBC or CBS conduct a First American Radio Play Awards contest, similar to the recent NBC Orchestral Awards.

Shields' Political Review on WCAE

R. T. M. McCready, leading breeder and exhibitor of horses, discusses the various phases of the annual Allegheny Country Club horse show, staged this year as a benefit for the Allegheny County Emergency Association, during the Trained Seals program on WCAE tonight at 7 o'clock. Dr. William McClelland, former boxing commissioner, also is heard. Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, is master of ceremonies.

A review of political activities of the city, state and nation is heard when Mark Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, gives his weekly talk on WCAE tonight at 6.

A unique and interesting program for the kiddies, with Jane White directing, is presented from the studios of WCAE at 4:45 during the Sun-Telegraph Family broadcast.

The "Girl With the Sweetest Voice" goes on the air today at 2:07 with important Sun-Telegraph announcements.

Madelon gives a gay little talk of special interest to women during her "Reflections of Madelon's Mirror" program on WCAE tomorrow morning at 10:30.

Betty Cruikshank, contralto, and Paul Gannon, tenor, are featured with David Levin's Orchestra and Herb McGee, master of ceremonies, during the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club program from WCAE tonight at 11.

DOCTOR USES NEW STOMACH FORMULA

"I have been having wonderful success with your ACIDINE," says Dr. L. T. Euman, New Lexington, Ohio. "One man, aged 59, suffered gastritis of the stomach. Had been in this condition for years. I treated him with ACIDINE and it gave very good results."

End gas, sourness, heartburn, dizziness, sleeplessness, headache resulting from acidity. Maker guarantees ACIDINE ends these troubles or money back. All druggists have ACIDINE.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Church Collection

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am past 25. I have been corresponding with a middle-aged lady . . . a friend of my mother's who is dead. Is it proper for me to call her Mrs. Hoskins or Miss Cora? She calls me by my first name.

2. When calling on a married woman by her given name, is it proper to say Miss or Mrs.?

3. When a young man entertains a lady to dinner, is it proper for him to count out the money for her?

ELEANOR.

1. Do not take the privilege of calling this friend by her first name unless she herself requests you do this. Otherwise she probably won't consider the difference in ages. This situation often happens when the older person is a man and the younger person is a woman. The first name, since sometimes it would seem inappropriate for the younger person to call the older person by his or her name. This is especially true in your case where the friendship was originally your mother's.

2. In the South as you know it often the Miss Cora remains ever from unmarried days. Usually the married lady is used. Mrs. Hoskins. The first name is used instead. This means that all rules are dropped, suitable with this democracy.

3. No. We should mind our own contributions, whether we are women or men. If someone else makes them for us, obviously they still are the other person's, not ours.

Engagement Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I should like to take this opportunity for thanking you for the many useful hints I have obtained through the daily reading of your column. Many times I have been puzzled on various conventional points that society has to be so careful about and on almost every one of these occasions you have helped me and I cannot begin to tell you how much I appreciate your kind and sincere understanding.

I am a member of a sorority. Just about a week ago one of its members announced her engagement, but did not set a date for the wedding. A controversy has arisen among the rest of us as to whether it is proper to hold a luncheon at present in her honor, or whether the correct thing to be done is to wait until the wedding date is set?

As we would like to act at once, would you be so kind as to settle this for us. K.

Thank you, thank you for your good and kind words.

One of the early June weddings, for which plans have just been completed, will take place in Washington. The bride is Norvelle R. Munford, daughter of Mrs. Edward S. Munford, of Washington, and the bridegroom is Joseph W. Mullally, of Pittsburgh, son of Mrs. M. Wilson Mullally of New York. Mr. Mullally served as aide at the White House during the Coolidge administration.

The wedding will take place June 9 in the home of the bride's mother. The bride, who is the daughter of Edward S. Munford of Stockton, Cal., has asked her niece, Betty Beauregard, as guest of Commander and Mrs. A. O. Beauregard, of Annapolis, Md., to be her only attendant.

The bride attended Gunston Hall and Holton Arms School, and studied abroad, and is a member of the Junior League.

Mr. Mullally, a graduate of Notre Dame University, is now in business here, having resigned his commission in the United States Army.

* * *

A number of home entertainments will precede the wedding Monday of Mary Blair Holmes, daughter of the Joseph Horne Holmeses of Devonshire street, who'll become the bride of Leavitt Corning, Jr., son of the Leavitt Cornings of St. Paul, Minn., in the Holmes home.

To Fete Bride

The ceremony will take place at 8:30 o'clock with the Rev. Dr. E. J. Van Etten officiating. Gwendolen Holmes, a sub-debutante, will be her sister's only attendant, and Townsend Corning will be his brother's best man.

Mrs. Norman C. McLeod will give a dinner in her home Saturday night, Elizab Boyd will give a tea Sunday afternoon in her home, and the Nathaniel Holmeses II will give a supper party in their home that night.

* * *

There are more children's classes than ever before and more entries in the annual Allegheny Country Club Horse Show to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the show ring, Sewickley Heights, for the benefit of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Association.

Horse Show

The Pittsburgh Hunt has entered a team, and the Sewickley Hunt, three hunt teams. Among those making farm entries is Mrs. Henry R. Rea.

* * *

Barbara Perry Irwin, daughter of Henry Taylor Irwin of Twin Hollows, Edgeworth, will become the bride today, the first day of June, of David C. Chaplin, son of the James Crossan Chaplins of Sewickley, in the Irwin home. The Rev. Dr. Alleyne C. Howell will officiate. Following the wedding will be a small reception.

CARNEGIE YEAR BOOKS ISSUED

13th Anniversary To Be Marked On June 24

By Mrs. Charles M. Bragg

In the new year books, just issued, the Carnegie Woman's Club announces its thirtieth anniversary celebration for June 24. The anniversary comes as a link between the season just closed and the new one which will open on September 30 with president's day when Mrs. J. G. Chalfant will be the speaker.

A comprehensive study of the thirteen original colonies has been outlined by the program committee, the season's study beginning with Virginia in October. An address by the Rev. Dr. Albert F. Day will be given in October, also and that same month there's to be an evening with the Juniors. Massachusetts and the Dutch colonies will be taken up in November, a drama day will be combined with the Christmas celebration, and further study of the New England colonies will conclude 1932.

To Study Colonies

With their January program on the southern colonies the members will combine plantation melodies, then comes the annual luncheon with Mrs. John M. Phillips as speaker, an afternoon devoted to a Pennsylvania program another to a colonial sketch and an exhibition of antiques which will feature a guest day. Food and drink in the colonies and the serving of meals are topics assigned on American home day, which comes in March, as does music day. Captions for the two April programs are "Common Interests" and "Revolutionary Days." Mrs. D. Edwin Miller is to address a Mother's Day meeting and the year will end with the festal ceremonies in May.

Miss Shultz Sets June 18 for Nuptials

June 18 is the date chosen by Miss Helen Shultz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Shultz, of Whipple street, Swissvale, for her marriage to George D. Cobaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cobaugh, of Sheraden. The ceremony will take place in the Millvale Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg. There will be a reception later in the Shultz home.

Weds in Church

The bride will be given in marriage by her father, and her sister, Miss Lois Shultz, will be the maid of honor. Miss Margaret Cobaugh, sister of the bridegroom-elect, Miss Esther Thomas, of Bethlehem, Miss Elizabeth Stevenson, of New York, and Miss Imogene Forster, of Fremont, O., will be bridesmaids. John Hattman will serve as best man. Ushers will include Harold G. Wismer, Thomas Byall and Charles Borgerding. Small Gladys Byall will be flower girl and Eugene Witmer will be ring bearer.

Miss Shultz is a graduate of Oberlin College and her fiance of Gettysburg College and he is a Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

* * *

Mrs. Anna Mary Hutchinson of Emerson avenue, Aspinwall, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Grace K. Hutchinson, to William George Holmes of Aspinwall, which took place on Saturday, May 21, in the East End Christian Church. The Rev. John Ray Evans officiated.

After the reception in the Hotel Schenley, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes left on an eastern motor trip. After July 1 they will be at home in Fairfield, after, East End.

* * *

The girls who will sell candy at the performance of "The Swan" by Ferenc Molnar, presented by the Seniors of Sacred Heart High School in the Alvin Theater Monday evening for the benefit of the De Paul Institute, include Miss Inez Galbraith, Miss Esther and Miss Beatrice Boerer, and Miss Margaret Mary Boerer. Miss Elizabeth, Miss Florence and Miss Margaret McConaughy, Miss Eleanor Flynn, Miss Mary Alice Katherine, Miss Helen and Miss Anne Martin, Miss Irma McAnulty, Miss Mary Louise Spellman, Miss Mary Brophy, Miss Margaret H. Sweeney and Miss Mary and Miss Katherine Moore.

The Misses Alumbaugh of the West Penn Hospital is giving a bridge party in the auditorium of the nurses home in Friendship avenue Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Miss Ruth Machin is chairman, assisted by Miss M. Martha Grove, Miss Jane Martin, Miss Mary Hill and Miss Edna Maish.

Nurses' Bridge

In honor of their eleventh wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Fawcett were entertained recently by friends and relatives at a surprise party in their home in Mellor avenue, North Side. C. P. Stright presented a musical program.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Geyer of Espy avenue, Dormont, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Orca Marie Geyer, to Edgar W. Meyers, Jr., of Carrick, which took place January 13, 1931. Officiating was the Rev. Milton W. Allison, of Wellsburg, W. Va. Mr. and Mrs. Meyers are at home in Braddock avenue, Wilkinsburg.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. John McSorley of Wightman street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ethel McSorley, to Frank Mihm, son of Mrs. Cecelia Mihm, of the East End, which was solemnized by the Rev. F. A. Mihm, brother of the bridegroom, this morning at 10 o'clock, in St. Paul's Cathedral. Only the families were present.

PRACTICAL CLOTHES LEAD THE FASHION PARADE THIS SEASON

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 1.—Paris designers—probably for the first time in their lives—are riveting their attention on what are known as "practical" clothes. Dressmakers nowadays talk to their clients as much about how easily a frock may be cleaned, or how simple it is to pack, as they do of the beauty of the material or the originality of design. Fashion houses vie with each other to turn out the smartest frocks of gingham, of pique or linen.

* * *

TAILORED, easy-to-wear clothes are at a premium. Godets, that are pressed in a second, take the place of the myriads of little plaits that used to appear in the skirts of summer frocks. Jackets and coats are made of fabrics that go to the laundry instead of to the cleaner.

* * *

MOLYNEUX, always an expert at tailored clothes, makes use of this new regime in his collection of summer dresses. He cuts them on tailored lines and freshens them with little white collars and cuffs that are easily detachable.

* * *

PICTURED is one of the new Molyneux ensembles that follows this idea. Both dress and jackets are made of a heavy type of shantung that looks like wool but may be laundered. The collar is beige—a tone which combines readily with bright colors, so may be worn with varying scarfs and bags, to effect fresh color combinations.

* * *

THE DRESS, which is two-piece, gets its fulness at the hem by means of stitched-down gores that are generously wide at the hem, but keeps the skirt snugly fitted at the hips. The jumper-top slips on over the head, but is buttoned above the waist in the tailored manner. Collar and cuffs are cream organdie, edged with tiny ruffles.

* * *

The accompanying jacket of shantung is exactly the same length as the jumperblouse of the dress. It is single breasted and is buttoned in line with the blouse of the dress. Pockets and cuffs are marked with visible stitching.

COLLEGE GIRLS wash

175 dainty garments with one box of LUX

TEN young college girls at the famous Allerton House in New York City recently counted the number of garments one box of Lux washed.

Their list totaled 175! More than 14 dozen—think of it! You've known Lux flakes were the safest, finest soap ever made, but did you realize how economical these marvelous tissue-thin diamonds are? Lux not only keeps nice things colorful and lovely as new—but it goes so far—does so much. Just look over the list one box washed:

| | |
|---|---|
| 35 pairs of stockings | 60 handkerchiefs |
| 10 brassieres | 11 pairs gloves |
| 10 slips | 2 face cloths |
| 9 bloomers | 1 silk kimono |
| 8 chemises | 1 sweater |
| 7 pajamas | 1 smock |
| 6 step-ins | 1 blouse |
| 4 vests | 1 collar and cuff set |
| 4 nightgowns | 1 hat |
| 2 singlettes | 1 girdle |

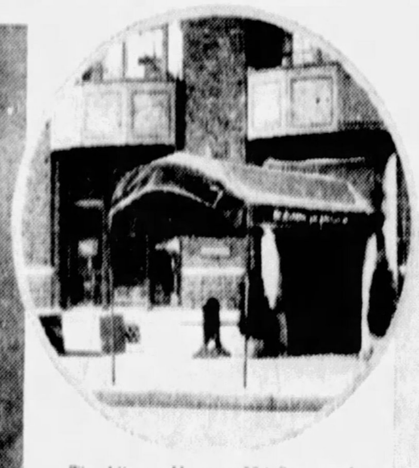
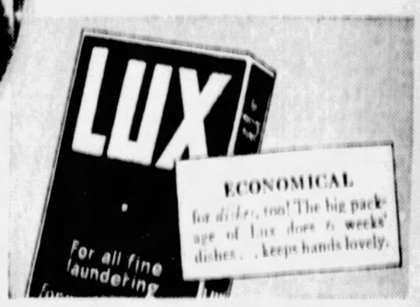
(Below) Miss Gretchen Wilson and Miss Tyler admiring a dainty chemise washed with Lux. Miss Wilson says: "Lux keeps stockings and lingerie new looking such a long time. And my, it's quick. You can do a whole bunch of silk things in no time at all!"



The Allerton House at 57th Street and Lexington Avenue, a smart residential apartment hotel for young college and business and professional women.



A little goes so far—it's economy to use LUX

Old Folks Have as Much Right To Wed as Young Ones

Are December romances [illegible]?

Have the youngsters a right to take a firm stand with mother if she gets "that way about a gentleman friend?"

Lonely mother was left alone. She had raised her family, and lost the husband who had traveled her early years with her. The fireside was broken up. Her children all had families of their own, and she was "living around," feeling more useless and neglected every day. What was the use of going on if you had no place of your own, with someone "just your own" who needed you?

Then she met a [illegible] who felt just as she did. [illegible] found they loved [illegible] each other.

Once more she could [illegible] happiness—felt young and eager again. But how [illegible] children who insisted on regarding her as an old lady?

"They'll raise Cain," she wailed. "They'll [illegible] as my own. Don't we [illegible] we just slip off and [illegible] have they a right to [illegible] things go on as they are?"

We told her to [illegible] today "Another Widow's Daughter" is giving out advice on hand.

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I've just read Lonely Mother's little story in your column, and I want to say my say about it, if I may.

"I say that she should go ahead and marry the man if she wants to. And whose business is it but her own if she does?

CHANCE FOR HAPPINESS

"My own mother has been a widow for nine years and has worked hard to bring up my younger sister, my brother and myself. And do you think for a minute that we would dream of standing in her way if she saw a chance for happiness? We would not!

"No child of any widow has a particle of right to say yes or no about his or her mother's remarriage, provided the man she wants to marry is decent and she feels she will be happy. Why, I would help my mother in every way I could to make her happy.

"I say more power to any widow who finds a nice man who will give her a happy and comfortable home and com-

HAS RIGHT TO WED

You brought them up and have seen them get married and started on lives of their own. You are not a child or a moron to be bossed around. So here's what you do:

Just step up and say: 'Well, children, now that you're all grown up and are able to take care of yourselves so that I am footloose, I am getting married. I know that I will be happy in a place of my own, and I won't have to look forward to being alone in my old age.

Then if they don't like it? Well I am too much of a lady to say what they can do. And that's that.

Where do youngsters get the idea that they should be so happy and try to manage the folks who were going concerts before they even came on the scene anyway?

So go right ahead. It's your life, not theirs. And may you have all the happiness in the world in your new home.

Another Widow's Daughter.

A fine girl! Old folks are people as well as young ones, and have as much right to live their own lives in their own way.

Girls of the Stage Have Ambition For Stardom or Brilliant Marriages, Says Fay King

ONE GIRL LEAVES STARDOM TO MARRY
I MISS THE STAGE. I WANT TO GO BACK INTO A SHOW
THOSE STILL STRUGGLING FIND IT HARD TO BE UNDERSTOOD
I THINK SHE'S SAD!
YOU SAID IT!
FAY KING
ANOTHER GIRL LEAVES A MILLIONAIRE HUSBAND TO RETURN TO THE STAGE

By FAY KING.

Girls who go on the stage usually have two ambitions.

To become a star.

To make a brilliant marriage.

Many girls of the stage have attained one of these ambitions. A few have accomplished both.

The countless others who are still struggling along look upon the successful ones with great interest.

They find it hard to understand why one girl who has become a star will leave it all to marry.

They find it even more difficult to understand why another girl who has made a brilliant marriage will leave her rich husband to return to the stage.

But it seems that in becoming a star or marrying a millionaire they do not always find the happiness they imagined from afar.

Proper Diet and Cleanliness Required to Get Rid of Acne

Many inquiries have come to me from young readers suffering from acne, and to answer them it is necessary to go somewhat into detail.

Dr. Copeland

Acne is the most prevalent of all skin diseases, and though it causes no pain it causes mental suffering and embarrassment to those afflicted.

Acne is an inflammatory disease of the glands of the skin. It is most frequently found on the face but may involve the shoulders and the back. The skin is greasy and contains many blackheads and pimples. These pimples frequently become infected, dry up and leave behind an ugly crust and possibly a permanent scar.

The exact cause of acne is still unknown. A germ called bacillus acnes has been found in many cases. Another germ called staphylococcus albus is commonly found in cases where pustules are present. The disease usually sets in at the age of puberty, when the sweat glands of the skin are extremely susceptible to infection.

Another factor which must not be overlooked is carelessness about foods. Overeating of rich foods, candies, pastries and desserts is a common weakness at this age.

In the treatment of acne the hygienic care of the skin is important. Absolute cleanliness is the first requisite. It is necessary to get rid of blackheads and cleanse and disinfect the skin as thoroughly as possible and this must be attended to before relief can be obtained.

Bathe the face in hot water until the skin becomes red, then with great gentleness pinch out the blackheads or remove them with an extractor. After this the face should be bathed again with a pint of hot water to which one teaspoonful of a compound solution of cresol has been added.

An astringent prescribed by a physician should be applied to the skin at night and washed off in the morning with hot water and a gritty soap. Follow this with a dash of cold water.

If pus forms the pustules should be opened preferably by a physician, because he will take great care as to cleanliness. Never violently squeeze a pimple or serious results may follow.

In severe cases of acne successful results have been obtained by the injection of a special vaccine. Mixed vaccines, which contain both the acne germ and the staphylococcic germ, are extremely beneficial in some cases. Often the action of the vaccine is slow and improvement results only after prolonged treatment. In other cases ultra-violet light has been used and in very stubborn cases X-ray treatment has been found successful.

Proper diet is important in treating acne. Avoid starchy and sweet foods like candy, cake, pies, jellies, ice cream, pastries, puddings, jam, sugar, sweet desserts and cereals, nor are spices, condiments, coffee, tea, cocoa, alcoholic beverages, nuts, melons, berries or corn permitted in the diet. Drink plenty of water between meals, but not with meals.

Any tendency towards constipation must be corrected before there can be hope of a cure.

Answers to Health Queries

M. J. Q.—Early this fall I noticed a red, round spot on my neck. It kept getting larger until a month ago it was as large as a half dollar. Identical spots have come out on my body. Can you tell me what you think this disease is?

A.—Possibly you are suffering from psoriasis. You should see your doctor.

Ted T. O. Q.—What do you advise for pimples?

A.—Correct the diet, by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

-:- Contract Bridge -:- -:-

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Luck's Part in Making Slams

Luck plays an important role in a large proportion of slams made. One lead may enable the declarer to fulfill a slam contract while another equally sound lead may render the slam impossible to make. In such cases the declarer should neither take credit for his own excellent play nor moan over his hard luck. On the following hand Y-Z took credit for their courage in bidding a slam, merely because a fortunate lead enabled them to make it. They never should have bid the small slam, let alone a grand slam.

Upon his ability to win within two tricks of game in his own hand, Z made a perfectly sound opening bid of 4-Hearts. Such a bid does not in the least invite higher contracting. More frequently than not the bidder must find two safe tricks in partner's hand to fulfill his contract. He may be fortunate enough to make a slam with support in dummy that cannot in advance be safely counted as certain winners. When it comes to making slams, first trick winners—aces, A-K's of the same suit, and ability to trump the first lead of a side suit—are the only safe elements upon which it is really safe to predict slams.

As partner trusts dummy for two tricks and does not invite further bidding, the assisting hand should count four absolutely certain winners to jump a four-odd contract into a small slam. To raise such a small slam contract to a grand slam the original bidder should hold in his own hand not fewer than nine definite tricks. Both those sound precautions for assisting the opening bid and for the original bidder's raise of the assisted bid were neglected in case of the hand shown, and yet both players appeared to consider their bidding wonderful.

Of course, A had to pass the opening bid for game, just as he would have had to pass an opening bid for one. Y took account of stock in an amateurish way. He valued his K of hearts as a certain trick. This was fair enough. Next he valued his diamonds as worth two certain tricks. So they were for a lower bid, but nothing might prevent an adversary from holding the ace of that suit, and have Z unable to utilize the remainder of the diamonds. Y also counted upon either one or the other of his two black kings surely winning a trick. In all, Y's sort of count gave him what he called four certain tricks, so he jumped the bid to 6-Hearts.

Y's reckoning was not any worse than the majority of bidders might use, but that does not make such trick counting sound when it is to be applied to slam declarations. Z's jump into 7-Hearts was utterly foolish but you might be unable to make him admit that fact.

The opening lead was the 3 of clubs, and that gave Z his grand slam. He discarded later two losing spades on two of dummy's diamonds. But an opening lead of the 3 of spades, had B taken an obligatory finesse of the J, would have beaten the contract by two tricks. Such is the luck of the game.

Madge Tells of Success in "Taming" Producer

The one thing which my years of marriage have taught me to expect from Dicky is the unexpected. At some harmless little episode which should call forth only mirth, he is exceedingly apt to have a brain storm of temper, and he is equally likely to treat lightly something at which he might very well show anger. So it was that my amazement was not as great as it might have been when as the door closed after Philip Veritzen, instead of turning on me in anger as I might have expected him to do, he bent fairly double in a paroxysm of laughter.

"The condemned old jackass!" he said. "Imagine him staging a thing like that. He must be getting senile. Did you get the full flavor of that? He wanted me to believe that he was staging something very luscious in the sentimental line with you. Therefore, he stammered as if he had been caught with his head in the jampot when everyone knows Phil Veritzen wouldn't turn a hair if he had been found with a pocket full of diamonds just after a jewel merchant had been murdered. I wonder if the anointed old idiot really imagined that I swallowed it?"

He stopped and looked at me with inquiry in his eyes. I was inwardly panic-stricken. For I knew if Dicky should discover my fear of the moment before, that he had taken Mr. Veritzen's action seriously, he would be more deeply offended than he would have been even at Philip Veritzen's belief that he was angry.

WAS ANGERED

But I had been given the chance to pull myself together in the moment when Dicky had bent so far over with laughter that he could not see my face, and I hoped that my giggle and amused answer would not sound forced as in reality they were.

"I don't believe that even he could be that deluded," I said, laughing; "still, why on earth should he stage anything like that if he didn't think that you would believe it? I imagine that your explanation of senility is the true one."

"It's the only one that saved the old goat from a drubbing this morning," Dicky said grimly. "I had all I could do to keep from grasping him by the nape of the neck and the seat of the trousers and jetting him describe an arc into the lilac bushes."

"Why! what did he say or do?" I asked, not because I was particularly curious, but because I sensed, vaguely, it is true, that Dicky wished to tell me about it.

"Enough! Plenty! and then some!" Dicky growled.

"Tell me," I begged in the most approved manner of a curious wife, asking for information which she fears may be withheld from her by masculine superiority.

"There's nothing much to tell," he returned with a sheepish grin, "nothing that you could put your finger on definitely. It wasn't so much what he said 'but the nawsty way he said it. I may have been all wet, but I thought he was distinctly trying to give me the impression that from now on while this drama is in production he is the 'master of your fate' the 'captain of your soul' and has first lien on your time. And then the way he spoke to you about 'appeasing' him. My fist fairly ached to connect with his jaw. The Lawd knows that I've gotten over any fool ideas I might have had about objecting to this playwriting stunt of yours but I can't stand this lofty assumption of Philip Veritzen's that because you've written the play for him which he is taking he is called upon to stage a King Cophetua and the beggar maid stunt. If he keeps that pose up, I've either got to keep out of his way or stand trial for mayhem, first degree assault or what have you."

MADGE EXPLAINS

There was something grimly earnest behind his raillery which made me vaguely uneasy. I had not planned to tell him the story of the way I had "tamed" the great producer in the interview just ended but suddenly it seemed to be the only solution of the problem presented by Dicky's resentment of Mr. Veritzen's attitude.

"I don't believe he'll do quite so much posing after this morning," I said demurely.

"Why?" Dicky's tone was quick and interested.

Then he strode over to me and putting his hand under my chin lifted it so that his eyes bored steadily down into mine.

"Look here," he said roughly. "You look exactly like a Persian kitten that has just gotten away with about two quarts of cream. You've something up your sleeve. Come across now. Tell Papa the whole story or get ready to eat your meals standing up for the next week."

I laughed at him saucily.

"First—and only appearance of Richard Graham, Esq. in the role of a rase man. I said. I will tell you all, but I want you to understand distinctly that it's because I want to, not because I'm scared of a drate big strong man."

Out of Place!

COUNTY AIRPORT PIPING

Gasoline-carrying pipes at the county airport, laid alongside conduits built too small and revealed by an inspection today! This resulted, the contractor says, in damage to the buried pipes by the over-passage of heavy machinery. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

TRICK PIPING BRINGS QUIZ

Engineers working under orders from E. C. Kaltenbach consulting engineer and right hand man of former Public Works Director Norman F. Brown, gave instructions to lay airport gasoline pipes alongside the conduit which was found to be too small to carry them, it was declared today. The curious situation had been revealed at a meeting of the county commissioners.

FOREMAN TESTIFIES

Carl Columbo, labor foreman for the Ortale Contracting Company, said today he laid the pipe under the direction of Kaltenbach's engineers. One engineer, Columbo said, was named Henderson. He was discharged last fall. Kaltenbach has also been dropped. Another engineer, Columbo said, was Paul Reed.

Kaltenbach, who received $25 a day as county consulting engineer under Brown, said he could not answer questions concerning airport construction without his file, which he had left behind when he left the county's employ last December. He said:

"I was not given an opportunity to finish my job with the county and nobody is going to throw anything back on me now. I won't stand for it.

ASKS TWO BE QUIZZED

"I think Paul Reed or Brooks Ross could answer from memory better than I could anyway."

Reed and Ross, engineers under Kaltenbach, were in direct charge of the work. Reed is still in the county's employ, but Ross is not. Henderson, Kaltenbach said, was an inspector. He was an engineer, also.

Leaks in underground gasoline pipes developed at the edges of the hangar ramp. The contractor charges the pipes were bent by heavy machines used in grading after the pipes had been buried.

Columbo has been working for over a week replacing damaged pipe.

ECONOMY GROUP POINTS WAY IN SAVING

Motorized Equipment Makes ... Units Unnecessary, ...ilding Owners Declare

Motorizing apparatus of the 16 Pittsburgh police stations provides the city with twice as many stations as needed, it was asserted today by members of the Building Owners and Managers Association. However, the association, it was declared, will not engage in controversial questions, when it appears before Council tomorrow to urge rigid economy in government.

Some leaders of civic bodies in discussing the use of modern equipment in police stations, said the stations were perhaps necessary in the days of horse-drawn vehicles, but not now. Many fire engine houses, it is also claimed, are not necessary because of modern equipment.

SEEK COUNCIL ACTION

Those who will appear before Council tomorrow will make concrete suggestions. They will comprise practically the same group that met in the Chamber of Commerce last Thursday at the call of the real estate and taxation committee of that organization to discuss the city's dwindling revenues in the hope of stirring up action that will cause Council to balance the 1932-33 budget. The city is now facing a possible deficit of $4,000,000.

The Building Owners and Managers Association is recommending to Council a further wage reduction for all city employes; elimination of positions not required for the reasonable and efficient conduct of city affairs; monthly checkup of expenditures in all departments; monthly report from the Controller's office showing the relation of current tax receipts to taxes levied with comparisons of previous years; setting up of a studied plan to collect delinquent taxes; a study made to increase the city's income from various sources and a number of others.

VOTE TO IGNORE VETS IN PENNSY UNION RULES

Declaring certain rules of the local union of steam and operating engineers are unreasonable, County Commissioners voted, two to one, yesterday to carry on the work of the county without regard to union regulations.

Commissioner W. D. Mansfield voted "no" and later introduced a motion, which passed, to confer with union officials and to seek amicable settlement.

F. J. Chester, director of the Department of Highways, reported the union men insist on being paid on certain county holidays which the union does not recognize, want apprentice engineers to operate all gasoline-driven equipment but trucks, and persist on locking machines and taking the keys with them.

One crane operator went hunting for three days with keys in his pocket, and materials had to be unloaded by hand, Chester declared.

SERVICE RETIRE

James L. Robson, of 201 Griffin street, was retired today from active service as assistant yardmaster from the Pennsylvania Railroad, after more than 50 years service, it has been announced. Edwin V. Hapenny, of 542 South Graham street, station master at the Pennsylvania Station, was retired after more than 45 years service. Others include Charles J. Isler, of Wilkinsburg; Charles M. Creese, of 3511 Gerber avenue; T. J. Daily, of Wilkinsburg; James McCallin, of 6820 Simonton street, and H. E. Graebing, of Leetsdale, all of whom have served 45 years or more.

Other men from the Central region of the railroad who were retired are G. W. Cook, of 1503 Buena Vista street; J. W. Freed, of Carnegie; W. S. Adams, of Crafton; S. E. Lingle, of 916 Lazton street; J. A. Dunlap, of 7239 Race street; Conrad Windherst, of 45 Solar street and M. McNamara, of Swissvale.

AUTO VICTIM PROVES NURSE

A woman killed Monday night by a hit-and-run motorist at Irwin avenue and Filmore street was identified at the county morgue last night as Mrs. Catherine Melvin, 68, a nurse, of 666 Marshall avenue, North Side. The identification was made by a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Meyer, of the same address.

Mrs. Melvin was returning from a visit at the home of a son in Filmore street when struck by the automobile, police said. She died in Allegheny General Hospital.

Suffering a probable skull fracture and brain concussion when he fell from a truck on which he was riding at South Thirty-first and Jane streets yesterday, Frank Markavitz, 11, of 3219 Arlington avenue, was in a serious condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today. George Smathalk, of 308 Catherine street, McKees Rocks, driver of the truck, told police he was unaware of the accident until told by motorists.

Fall Causes Death Of Aged Woman

Mrs. Margaret O'Hagan, 69, was dead today in her home at 325 Hastings street, the result of a fall, May 19, when she fractured her left shoulder. Pneumonia developed following the injury and caused her death, according to a morgue report.

Congress Makes Business of U. S. Sweat Red Ink

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Notice how Congress figured out the unemployment problem?

No relief for the man who ain't working. More taxes for the man who is.

That's killing two birds with one stone and gets everybody sore, including the Audubon Society.

The Moses who was supposed to lead us out of the financial wilderness lost his own way almost four years ago. We've been in the woods so long our breaths smell like hickory.

The boys are going to raise a billion with the higher levies, the wrack and gouge and the thumbscrew.

Don't let anybody tell you it isn't torture when the government twists the business man's pocket until he sweats red ink.

We'll hand this Congress credit for one thing. It has eradicated all mental worries. A man can take a vacation without wondering if he has left the office safe open or closed.

Either way, it makes no difference. There's nothing in it.

WABASH TUBE DEAL OPPOSED

James D. White, representing the Allied Boards of Trade, today protested the purchase of the Wabash Bridge and Tunnel, as a traffic outlet from the Triangle, at the third session of the County Commissioners' hearing.

White urged development of the present traffic facilities rather than creation of new facilities of doubtful worth. He said the present bridge and tunnel are a handicap because they divide the district and their improvement would depreciate property by unsightly ramps.

W. P. McGervey and John H. O'Donnell, taxpayers, also opposed the purchase.

SEEK BANDITS AFTER THREE ROBBERIES

Fruit Dealer Attacked and Robbed of $1,000 Ring; Victim Routs Two Thugs

Three holdups by bandit pairs were reported to police within 12 hours today.

Louis Myers, 50, is in Passavant Hospital with severe cuts on his head, suffered when struck by a revolver butt as he grappled with two men who held up his hardware store, 2122 Fifth avenue, early today. The men escaped with Myers' wallet containing $95 after knocking him unconscious.

North Side and Woods Run police were seeking two bandits who held up Frank Abbott, wholesale fruit dealer, as he was about to drive his car into his brother's garage, the Abbot Sales and Service Company, 1323 Pennsylvania avenue, late last night. Abbott told police they took a $1,000 ring.

The bandits concealed themselves in the garage, Abbott told the police, and leaped upon him as he opened the doors.

Police believe the robbers to be the same ones who unsuccessfully tried to hold up a fruit store at 1519 Beaver avenue a short time later.

They walked into the store, one of them brandishing a revolver at Louis Tuallonarro, the proprietor, and the other ordering him:

"Stick them up!"

Instead, Tuallonarro lunged at the bandit with the revolver, knocking it from his hand.

Both of the robbers fled from the store.

BEN AVON HONORS TEACHER RETIRING AFTER 46 YEARS

Educator Presented With Wrist Watch By Friends

Miss Rachel D. Watt, retiring from teaching after 46 years in Ben Avon schools, was honored at a reception and entertainment last night in the United Presbyterian Church and presented a wrist watch by her friends.

Miss Watt

A program in the form of a newspaper, entitled "The Ben Avon Milestone," was presented by her former students, many of whom have children, nieces and nephews attending Miss Watt's class this year. A pictorial section showed the first school board, three generations, family group and former associates.

The Rev. J. J. McIlvaine presented "Greetings From a Native Son," and the Rev. William T. Lytle presented the watch.

A dramatic interpretation of a first reader nursery story, "Johnny and the Three Goats," was given by Jessie Joslin Haggart, Eleanor Moore Lowrie, Melinda Moore Thomas, Anna Woodside Baker and Mary Lee Osborn Sykes.

$2,500 to Be Distributed In Film Title Contest

Everyone needs money these days. That's why the Sun-Telegraph has made plans for a contest that will distribute $2,500 in cash prizes. In these days of unusual depression, this is a lot of money and it should be welcome news to the readers, and others, of this newspaper.

In this new contest, it will be possible to win as high as $500 in one prize. That's an extravagant sum, isn't it? If you don't win the $500 prize, you have a chance to win $250 in gold, $175 in gold, three prizes of $75 each, seven of $50 each and 10 of $25 each. In all they are 148 prizes totaling $2,500.

The background of the contest will be popular movie titles—something that every man, woman and child is familiar with. The contest will furnish an opportunity to win the liberal cash prizes mentioned above and at the same time will furnish fun and recreation for the entire family during the early summer days and evenings.

The contest is open to everyone, whether or not they read the Sun-Telegraph, living in Pittsburgh or within 100 miles of Pittsburgh. But to participate in this wonderful distribution of cash you must be enrolled. You will find a blank and additional contest information on page six today.

Here's your opportunity to beat the depression. Don't overlook it. Send in your enrollment blank today.

Vittor, Sculptor, Loses Tools on Car

Without his tools even a sculptor is lost, admits Frank Vittor, noted Pittsburgh artist who is looking for the package of modeling tools he lost on a Forbes street car Saturday. Vittor was bound for his home to carve a bust of his two-year-old daughter, Carla. Now he must wait until new tools can be shipped from Italy before completing the model.

W. Va. City Speeds Public Work Plans

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., June 1.—Unemployment was made to speed public works in the completion and excavation for a four-inch water main here. City officials gathered 116 men and had the work completed within 12 hours. They paid $3.25 a day for the labor.

Pittsburghers Held In Store Robbery

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 1.—Donald T. Wells, 28, and William Thompson, 29, who claim Pittsburgh as their home are being held by police accused of robbing the Haney furniture store. Police say the men were captured after a chase when they were discovered attempting to open the store safe.

Mt. Lebanon Police Seek Pigeon's Owner

Mt. Lebanon police are attempting to find the owner of a pigeon found dead near the home of Mrs. J. J. Bailey, 130 Crescent drive, yesterday. Its registration band reads:

"1003-AU-32-SP."

The bird attempted to enter Mrs. Bailey's bedroom window Friday night. Late Saturday night it was on the kitchen transom and was not seen again until its body was found yesterday.

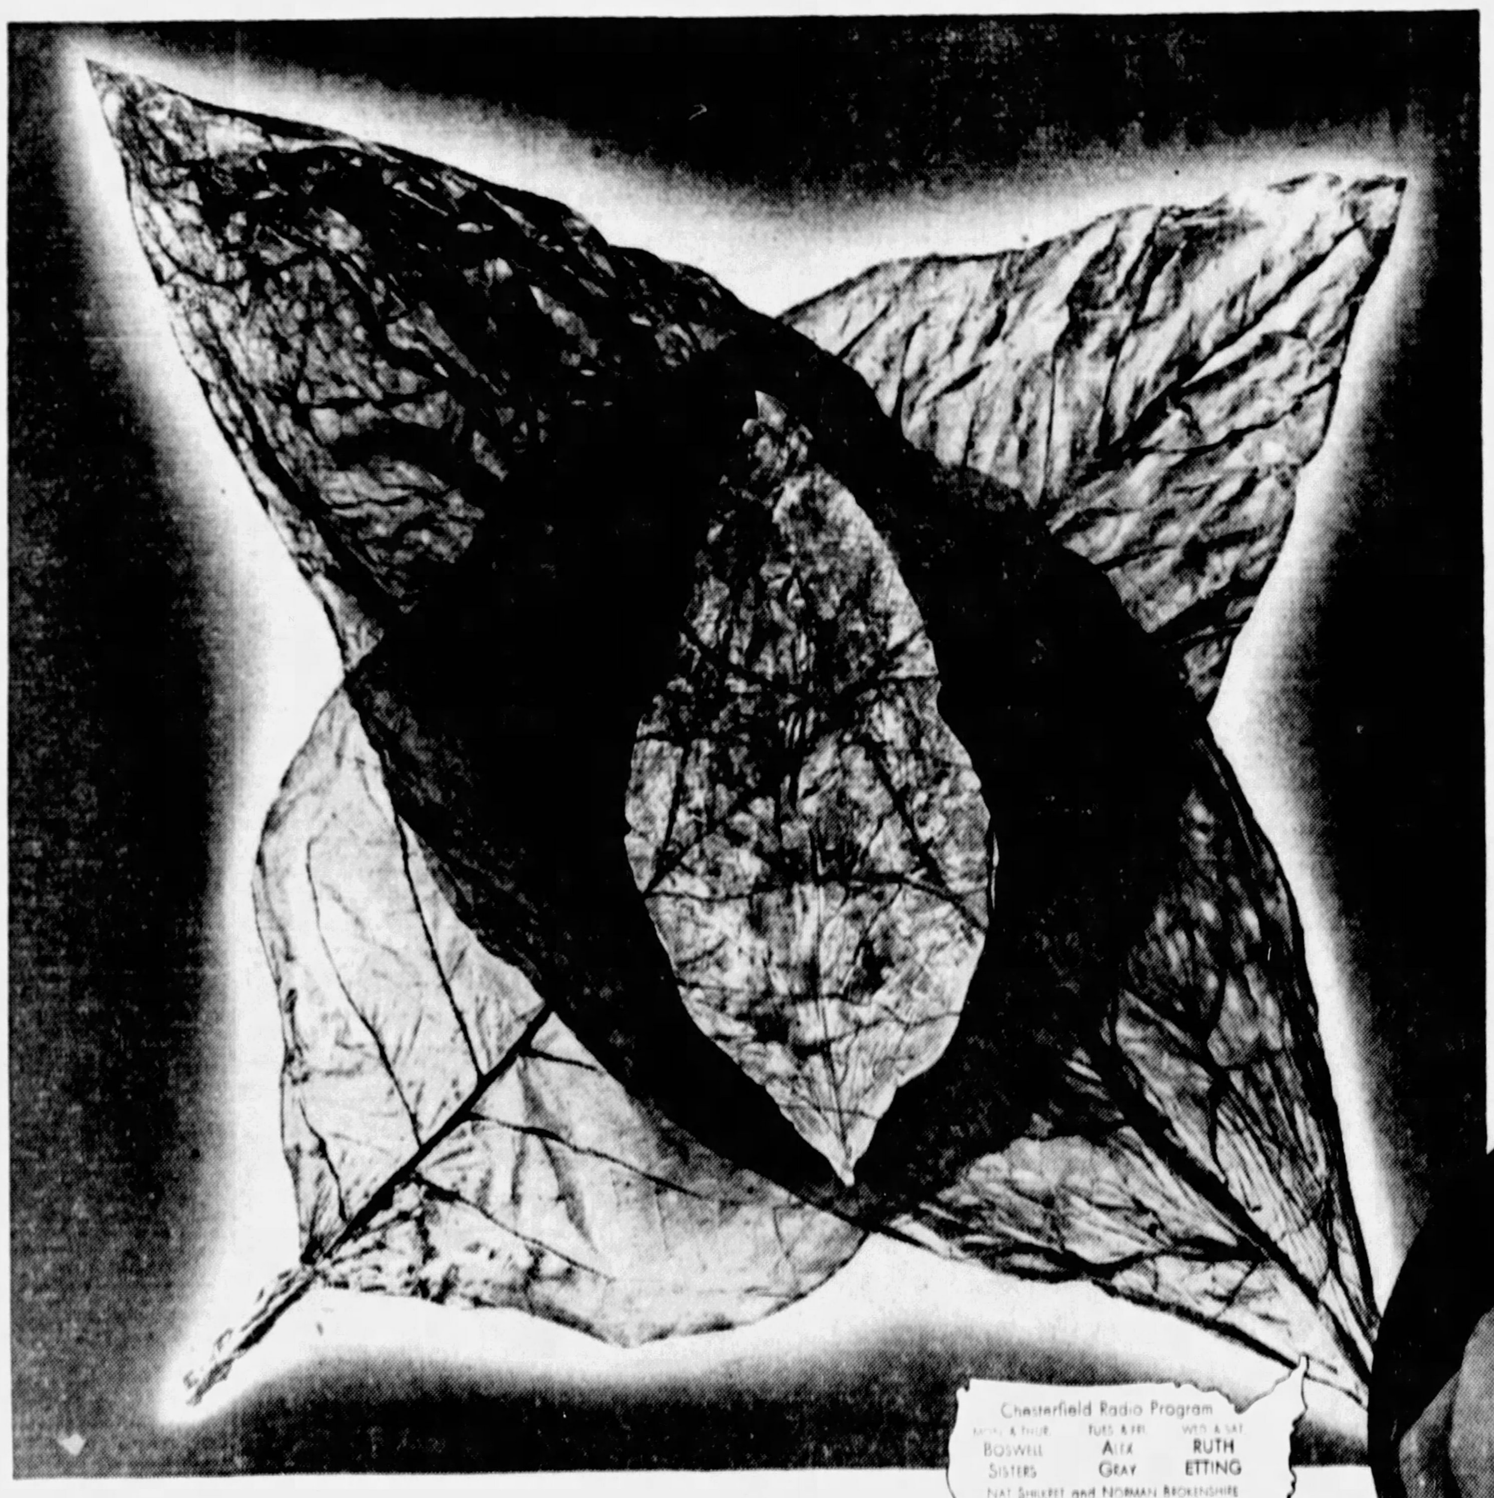
It's as though the tobaccos were "welded" together...



"CROSS-BLENDING" means much more than just mixing tobaccos together.

It "welds" together different kinds of the several varieties of tobacco... many types of Bright tobacco, a great many types of Burley tobacco and numerous grades of Turkish tobacco.

• • •

THIS "WELDING" TOGETHER—or Cross-Blending—permits every kind of tobacco used in the Chesterfield blend to partake of the best qualities of every other type. Each tobacco is thus made to yield its finest flavors.

• • •

CROSS-BLENDING takes all these pleasing flavors and aromas and combines them into one—the Chesterfield taste. And we think you will agree that it is a far better taste . . . worth all the extra care that Chesterfield takes to get it.

MURDER OF THE NIGHT CLUB LADY : By ANTHONY ABBOT

CHAPTER XLVII.

I should have known better than to bedevil myself with such questions. I have been with Thatcher Colt too many years not to know better. The man never does anything without some basis in sound reason.

Colt had seen something in that photograph which had escaped me—had escaped us all.

What could it be?

I confess I looked with new interest at the framed portrait which Capt. Henry presently brought into the room. There was the same smiling, youthful face. But what clue looked out at us from within the borders of the chased silver frame?

Still I could find nothing whatever.

Thatcher Colt received the photograph from Capt. Henry and with a smile sent the old fellow back to Center street. I am sure he wished to remain. Without waiting for the door to close, the Commissioner went back to his argument.

"The final proof, gentlemen, is just now in my hands. The case has come to an end. The facts are complete. It remains only to place them before you, and to arrest the guilty person."

We looked at him like freshmen absorbed in a lecture we found glamorous. There was a tenseness, like electricity, trembling in the air. What revelation would be uttered here in the next five minutes?

DOUBTED WOMAN

Colt held up the photograph.

"As some of you know," he went on quietly, "I was drawn to this photograph from the moment I saw it. It seemed to be the face of someone I had seen before. The features evoked a recollection in my mind. Yet for a long time I could not identify them.

"But logic settled that question within two hours. I made a mental breakdown of that photograph. Whose eyes did it suggest? Whose mouth? Whose short, peaked ears? I got a little way with that—but I needed proof. Then I unframed this portrait and got the name of the French photographer. By the telephoto process I sent that picture to Paris and asked the chief of police to investigate.

"Meanwhile I was making other researches by cable. To my infinite surprise I learned that Lola Carewe had lived alone in London and in Paris. Who, then, was the charming old gentlewoman she had introduced to us here as her mother? Was she a stage mother, family front for nobodies, as I have heard is an old Hollywood custom?

"Then, by a quirk of fancy, my mind went back to a moment last night in the Crystal Room of the Ritz. Two girls—cinema performers—in blue, and a dowager mother were presented. I learned that the dowager was not really the girls' mother. She was hired by the motion picture company to give the girls a family background. Such things were done. Lola Carewe had been in the movies and was thinking of going back again. Perhaps she had a hired mother, too, then—and perhaps after her marriage she found it impossible to get rid of her.

"A cable to London soon settled that. Lola's mother died immediately after Lola's birth. These reports confirmed my suspicions. Lola had entered the United States alone.

"I thus reasoned—and correctly—that the old lady we knew as Mrs. Carewe was a fake. She was an actress, hired to play the part. What was her hold on Lola? Perhaps she had blackmailed Lola—the blackmailer blackmailed—and thus held on to her job. But being a sentimentalist, she insisted on having a plain room such as she had always known.

"The two of them must have known a lot about each other!"

Colt's voice was now very clear and distinct. He had told Mrs. Carewe to keep her door open. I had no doubt that she could hear distinctly every word that was said. But there was no outburst, not even the sound of crying. Apparently, the old woman was taking it with the immobility of a stoic.

"This altered the situation," Colt went on, his voice resonant and clear. "Even the most hardened policeman hesitates to accuse a mother of murdering her own child. But we were being more and more forced to that conclusion. There are no miracles. There were no secret doors. From the very first Dougherty had said it was an inside job—and from the very first I have believed him. Moreover, I had put my hand on the old woman's head—and found that her hair was wet!

"It was then that the information was received that gave me what I might call the impelling clue.

KNEW ABOUT SCORPIONS

"M. Dupont stated in his wire that the father and mother of Basil Boucher had been in the business of supplying hospitals with specimens!

"There was the connection established over what had seemed to me an abyss in my reasoning. How could an old woman, hired to play a part of mother, know anything about scorpions from a remote region of Mexico?

"There seemed to be no answer to that question. But now! The skies cleared in my head. I saw the likeness—of course it was clear! The same sharp-pointed ears, high cheekbones, slanting eyes—why had I not immediately tied them together? I remembered my puzzlement that no dead insect was found near the body of Lola. Then I remembered who had knelt over her ministeringly when first we found her. I remembered, too, that when Lola shrieked, all rushed to her assistance. But Mrs. Carewe arrived late with the skill of a conjurer, she had taken advantage of that misdirection, when all attention was concentrated elsewhere, to haul in Christine's body and leave it on the floor. And I recalled, too, how she had accused Rowland in her sleep—the stenographic record of Miss Lox shows that conversation was too direct, too lucid, to be a part of a dream phantasm. I had one more job to do. I called M. Dumont on the telephone and asked him to go back to that photographer—to ask him if there were any other pictures of Boucher—any of his father and mother—and wire them back to me as fast as the telephone process could make it. Or to send me the cartes d'identite.

"I have just received a picture from Paris. Capt. Henry brought it to me, just as it was developed off the receiving machine. It shows a boy and his mother. I want you to take one look."

We crowded around him. The sight made us gasp.

Mother and son had been taken together; she seated in an old-fashioned rococo chair and he—Basil Boucher—standing reverently behind her, the woman we knew as Mrs. Carewe.

"Revenge!" cried Thatcher Colt. "For the death of that boy, whom she regarded as destroyed, body and soul, by Lola. Lola had never seen her. Her path was long and devious. She got the job—and waited long. She even went so far as to involve Lola in her plans. I believe she made Lola buy the scorpions when killed her having first tempted her into planning murder—of Guy Everett and Christine. Only a mind maddened by grief could plot so long and so stealthily—delaying the pleasure of murder—and kill an innocent girl like Christine who probably had accidentally learned the truth. Two deaths, to revenge the ruin of a boy in France years ago—"

There was the sound of a horrible rattling as if life and death were struggling in a human throat. We heard the voice of Dorothy Lox remonstrating—noise of a struggle. Then the sound of running feet, the crash of glass, 23 floors above the street, a stifled cry, and a gust of cold wind.

The killer of Lola and Christine would never stand trial!

-:- Plays and Players -:-

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The community of interest recently mentioned in this department, in which the affiliates are the Theater Guild, the Shuberts and the Erlanger Amusement Enterprises, whereby the productions of all will be shown in one theater in each city, also will mean a uniting of subscription activities, which will be under supervision of one local committee. Mrs. H. C. Bughman, Jr., and Mrs. T. M. Jones III, who were at the head of the organization sponsoring the Professional Players last season, will have charge of local arrangements for the plays to be presented next season by the combined group, officially titled the American Theater Society. Mrs. Fitzwilliam Sargent, of Philadelphia, one of the originators of the Professional Players, is expected in Pittsburgh soon to announce the theater in which the plays will be given and other plans.

* * *

Katharine Cornell, now in Los Angeles in her transcontinental tour in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," has grossed almost $400,000 in this play on the road alone. This covers 16 weeks, including the engagements in Cleveland and Buffalo that preceded the long New York run, which she ended while the play still was doing profitable business in order to fulfill her promise that she would tour in it before opening in another play. She still has seven to play on the road. When it is completed the total run of the play, including 47 weeks in New York, will approximate 16 months, which is the time of its run in the Queen's Theater, London. There the box office receipts were £112,000, which, it is estimated, will be exceeded by a million and a half dollars in America.

Ted Healy, last here with "Crazy Quilt," has organized a vaudeville unit, which includes three acts besides himself. . . . Tom Bodkin, Pittsburgh boy, has been made manager of the Casino, New York theater recently acquired by Flo Ziegfeld. Mr. Bodkin has been company manager of "Hot-Cha." . . . George M. Cohan, who once thought he'd try pictures and then balked, has decided that he'll go to Hollywood after all. . . . Helen Vinson, who pleased us very much as the ethereal lady with Philip Merivale in "Death Takes a Holiday," is working in support of Constance Bennett in the film, "Two Against the World." . . . Jack Holt and Ralph Graves will be teamed again in "War Correspondent," comedy with atmosphere of China and Japan. . . . "Night Flower," newest Barbara Stanwyck film, has been completed.

Boyd Engaged For Drama Of Sea

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, June 1.

When audiences first roared at Flagg and Quirt on the screen, they little recked what a trail of hard-boiled teams would follow in the wake.

Now Fox has engaged William Boyd, hero of the stage to ... a South Sea ... After ...

William Boyd

... Producer Sharnoff and a pearl-fisher play.

Under the direction of John ... the eternal triangle will take shape again on the screen. You'll notice I'm sure, the interesting similarity between the title of this picture and the somerset Maugham drama which United Artists is filming at the ever-convenient Catalina.

You really couldn't tell, she had anything on, when you first saw her emerge from a distant slate on the Warner lot. Three newspapermen stopped entranced.

"Who's that?" snapped one.

"Oh," squelched Hub Keavs. "She's just one of the girls in the technicolor shorts."

AND SO TO GOSSIP

Why were the two carloads of Beverly Hills officers guarding Marlene Dietrich's house the other day? . . . It's really quite amusing, that mistake of Countess Dentice De Frasso. The other evening they introduced Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., to her as a Russian count. With his new haircut, his monocle, his little mustache, he was such a good imitation that she took it big. So big in fact that the group at Pickfair finally broke up and had to spill the rib. But that wasn't the funniest. Two evenings later, they introduced her to the genuine thing, Count Hans Haubold Von Einsiedel, no less. He also wore a monocle, and bowed stiffly.

"No, no, not me," sniffed the Countess. "I went for it once but not again."

And she gaily tweaked the Count's monocle.

Frances Dee

"I'll bet you you wear that in swimming," she said.

This time they tipped the truth just in time to avert international complications.

I'm loath to believe it, too, but RKO swears that Bobby Clark of Clark and McCullough smokes 50 50-cent cigars a day . . . And while we're on the subject of statistics, Loretta Young wears 17 nightgowns in her new picture, "Life Begins." . . . Guess what star it was of whom someone said:

"Two to one, you could nail a sole right on her bare foot."

And now they're using batteries of arc-lights at closing out sales. Saw it myself on Hollywood boulevard.

FRANCES DEE HIT

The career of Frances Dee from extra to leading woman, and perhaps some day star, proceeds apace.

Chatting with Paramount officials, I discovered they have two important things lined up for her in the near future. She will supplant Sylvia Sidney in "Everything for Sale," and she will play the feminine lead in "West Pointer." The first story is by Anthony Veiller, son of Bayard, and it takes place against the background of a great department store. Blond Gene Raymond plays opposite Frances. The military story is to be filmed this summer at West Point with the permission of the government. Charles Starrett is another Paramount player in the cast.

Father Cox Minstrel Opens Tonight

Father Cox's Minstrel Revue will be presented this evening and tomorrow evening in the Nixon Theater. Proceeds from the revue will go to the Father Cox Relief Fund. A parade, ballyhooing the show, was to pass through the downtown district at noon today. The parade was to be headed by Ben Marshall, assistant superintendent of police, and Harry Brown, manager of the Nixon.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Fulfillment

SHE TOLD ME her name was Daisy Lee and she seemed a little surprised when I failed to recognize it.

"I thought you Broadway reporters knew everybody's history," she said. "Isn't that your business?"

That conversation didn't take place recently. As a matter of fact, it occurred some eight or nine years ago when I would arise at the ambitious hour of 11 a. m. and visit the Broadway agencies in search of theatrical news. And a woman of Daisy Lee's type was no by means a novelty to me.

She was I should say, about 50 years of age. Her eyes were hazel and she was inclined to be stoutish. Everything about her suggested a stage training. Her diction. Her walk. Her mannerisms. And I might add, her very definite charm.

She wasn't prosperous when I spoke to her that morning. Far from it. The dress she was wearing had seen plenty of service. Her hat seemed to be the latest thing from the Bronx rather than Paris. And her shoes looked worn even though the heels were straight.

All in all then, she appeared to be just another of the hundreds of former actresses who made the rounds of the theatrical agencies in those days. Their routine never varied. They walked into an agency, offered a cheery good morning to the girl at the desk, smiled somewhat sanely as they heard the familiar cry of "nothing today," and walked on out again.

Once in a while a great while there would be a day's engagement somewhere, or a few, or the women would be sent to a theatrical office as a type for a new play. One might get the job and the others would get the air. Then the next morning the rounds would begin all over again.

Such a character was Daisy Lee. And when she seemed to think that I should be familiar with her history I couldn't help smiling.

"I'll admit," I told her, "that I would like to know everyone's history. But you will admit, Miss Lee, that that's rather a tough assignment. After all, I do meet a great many people in your profession. And would it surprise you to learn that each one thinks his individual history is most important in the scheme of things?"

She laughed.

"Not at all," she replied. "Nobody knows more about the vanity of stage people than I do. But I well, I flatter myself that I'm just a trifle different from the rest. You see, even though you don't know it, I was one of the queens of my day. And before I die, I expect to be hailed just as I once was."

That was almost enough for me. It was the same old story all over again. Eternal hope, and all that sort of stuff. The woman had probably amounted to something for a few seasons in years gone by. When youth went, her future went with it.

"I have no doubt about it, Miss Lee," I assured her politely. "As far as I'm concerned, you're still a queen. Good luck to you."

I walked inside to see the artist's representative who owned the office. I sat down and I shook my head.

"Always feel sad when I meet a dame like that," I muttered. "Just met a woman out there whose name is Daisy Lee. You know her, I suppose. Well, she gave me the usual routine about being a big shot in her time. But she hasn't given up. Expects to become a queen again before she passes out. Something touching about all that, George. Especially when you know she hasn't a chance in ten million."

The agent nodded.

"You're right, Mark," he returned, "but she has more of a history than you think she has. I happen to know her entire story—and from others in addition to herself. She was far from being a mug in her palmy days.

"Daisy came from a small town and hit the Broadway crowd of her day right in the middle of the eyes. When she tells you she was a queen, she's not slipping you any con. As I understand it, she had half the male population of the town plenty goofy about her. She never was one of our truly great actresses, but she had oodles of appeal.

"In no time at all she was right in the middle of the heavy dough. The men fought to send her gifts—and Daisy was no chump referee. She took anything that came her way. But there was one big fault. She spent is just a little faster than it came in.

"They tell me now that she couldn't get rid of her money fast enough. Any time that girl got five cents in value for one of her dollars, she was bargain hunting. The parties she gave were the talk of the town. I wasn't around myself in those days, but from all accounts her shindigs were plenty hot. And, of course, plenty costly.

"She had two or three pals who tried to straighten her out. They told her that, at the rate she was going, she was a sure thing to wind up in the poorhouse. But Daisy Lee just gave them the ha-ha. She told them not to worry about her.

"'I'm living like a queen,' she said, 'and that's the way I'll die. Forget about it.'

"Well I don't have to tell you the rest. She had gone up fast—but her come-down made that ascent look like a snail's race. Once they go, you know how fast they go. I'm not telling you anything new.

"And there she is today. Living like all the rest. Getting a few dollars here and a few dollars there. But she does give me something of a kick, at that. Plenty of the others give up hope. Not Daisy. Whenever she can get my ear, she slips me the same data she handed you.

"She's positive she'll be a queen again. Sad, isn't it?"

"Yep," I replied, "it sure is. Got a cigaret?" . . .

* * *

A few weeks ago I sat with that same man. He's a producer now, and he's waiting patiently for something to produce. I hadn't seen him in some time and we chinned volubly of old times. He talked of the day he had closed his agency office and of the characters he missed seeing in his new branch of the business. I interrupted him suddenly.

"Say, George," I asked him, "whatever became of Daisy Lee?"

He wrinkled his brow.

"Daisy Lee?" he repeated. "I don't think I—— Oh, yes, I remember now. The one we talked about that morning. She's dead."

"That so?" I muttered.

"Sure," he went on. "Guess it must have happened about three or four years ago. The papers all had it at the time. I got her a night's engagement in a costume pageant. She had just come off the stage when she had a heart attack. They rushed her to the hospital in her costume but it was too late."

"What kind of costume was she wearing?" I asked idly.

He shrugged his shoulders.

"I can't remember that," he replied. "I think it was a Grand Duchess. Or a queen. Something like that. Why?"

I smiled.

"No reason," I returned. "Got a cigaret?" . . .

Revue Acts Rehearse

Rehearsals are now being held for Warner Brothers second annual "Pittsburgh On Parade" revue to be held in the Stanley the week of June 10. More than 100 Pittsburgh performers will be in the show, which will be headed by Joe Penner and Dick Powell.

Marjorie Alton is co-producer of "Pittsburgh On Parade" with Jerry Mayhall, head of Warner Brothers production staff. Miss Alton has been premier ballerina with Michael Nordkin and she has appeared in musical comedies and revues. She was producer for theaters in St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago and New York.

One of the big features of the "Pittsburgh On Parade" this year will be a "movie double contest," and the tryouts are to be held at 7 p. m. Tuesday, June 7, in the Harris Theater.

Talent for "Pittsburgh On Parade" was selected in all Warner Brothers theaters last Friday night.

'Flapper' Succeeds In Australian Flight

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 1. (AP.)—Irene Dean-Williams, "flapper flier," has reached here from Perth (Western Australia), thus becoming the first woman to pilot an airplane across the Australian continent.

Part of the flight was across the Central Australian Desert, the "graveyard" of many fliers, where the air often is so hot and devoid of moisture that it blisters the mouth and nostrils.

Sunday School Body Plans Convention

GREENVILLE, Pa., June 1.—The sixty-third annual convention of the Mercer County Sabbath School Association will be held in Zion Reformed Church, June 9 and 10.

Street

Kay Francis is featured in "Street of Women," coming to the Stanley on Friday.

Bandit Car Carries Minister's Plates

SHARON, Pa., June 1.—License plates stolen from the Rev. H. B. Davis, local Methodist Episcopal minister last January, were on an automobile in which two bandits escaped after holding up a chain grocery store here, police reported. W. L. Stewart and John Henshaw, clerks, were covered with revolvers by the robbers, who rifled the cash register yesterday.

Uniform Accounting Practices Favored by Investment Bankers

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

AN IMPORTANT STAND on accounting practices has been taken by the industrial securities committee of the Investment Bankers' Association of America in its interim report.

The committee urged that uniform accounting methods be adopted by all industry. The report, which is described by the committee chairman, John W. Cutler, of Edward B. Smith & Co., as a preliminary draft, aims at the eventual development of a general schedule of industrial accounting that will meet the approval of the American Institute of Accountants, the New York Stock Exchange and the Investment Bankers' Association.

* * *

Write-Offs Discussed In Committee Report

ACCOUNTING PRACTICES that the report pointedly discusses include the method of reporting a company's ownership by its own stocks and bonds in its balance sheet and the treatment of income therefrom in its earnings statements.

Criticism is also directed at a custom among corporations, during recent years, to write down the plant accounts by relatively large amounts. One company, says the report, has written down its fixed assets account to $1 and apparently intends to keep it at that figure. The report calls this conservatism carried to an extreme and adds that arbitrary reductions in value should not be countenanced. The report makes definite criticism of the handling of reserves, points out that the accountant's job is to be neither conservative nor unconservative, but simply accurate in order that the investor may have adequate and accurate information.

* * *

Complete Unity Is Difficult to Achieve

OF COURSE conditions affecting different industries make the development of a standardized system of accounting exceedingly difficult. But the fact remains that the income accounts of relatively few corporations tell an unbiased story.

The charging of excessive reserves as well as the charging of insufficient reserves makes it exceedingly difficult for the individual stockholder to come to any accurate conclusions as to the real status of his investment.

Standarized accounting practices have made it possible to tell how a railroad is getting along. To a lesser extent the investor can follow the progress or retrogression of most utilities but the wide variations of accounting practices in the industrial field leave competent accountants, as well as investors, in the dark as to real values.

U. S. EXCHANGE STRENGTHENS

NEW YORK, June 1.—(INS.)—The American dollar presented a firmer appearance against the major continental currencies today, reflecting the balancing of the budget last night by the Senate.

While the French franc moved up .000$^1_8$ to .0395, or substantially above the gold export point, pressure against the dollar relaxed and offerings of dollars lightened substantially.

Pound sterling sold down $^3_4$ of a cent to $3.68$^1_4$, while the belga was off .0001 at .1400. Guilders were firm at .0457, indicating further shipments of gold from this country.

German marks continued weak, reflecting the apprehension over the political situation there.

With several fast steamers leaving the port today, a substantial amount of gold, estimated at about $20,000,000, is expected to leave the country, adding to the $221,962,300 exported in May. The total last month was the largest for any month since last October, when nearly $700,000,000 was exported.

FRESH SELLING SWEEPS AWAY STOCK GAINS

Several Leaders Depressed To New Record Bottom Following Early Upturn

NEW YORK (AP)—A swift [illegible] market tone [illegible] invited [illegible] eventually drove several [illegible] shares back [illegible] ground.

While the [illegible] Congress to [illegible] was hailed [illegible] cles as [illegible] rious financial [illegible] viously [illegible] measures sought [illegible] raise the [illegible] ng selling from [illegible] al loan accounts [illegible] om other sources [illegible] essed the mark [illegible] short covering [illegible] ept prices up [illegible] The utilities were [illegible] derable volume [illegible] Monday, but the list steadied [illegible] in the early afternoon. Fresh [illegible] nt advances in American Can [illegible] d Santa Fe were [illegible] merican Telephone [illegible] point rise into a 3-point [illegible] nited States Steel, [illegible] pped back to sell fractionally [illegible] to new low ground. Consolidated Gas rose [illegible] then [illegible] opped about 4 from [illegible] merican Tobacco B rose [illegible] en dropped more than 6 from [illegible] e top. Miscellaneous [illegible] owing losses of a point or so [illegible] ternoon included Standard Oil [illegible] alifornia, Sears Roebuck, United [illegible] as Improvement, Hershey, Colgate Palmolive and Western Union.

Brokerage quarters [illegible] the selling of the utilities had been accelerated by the 3 per cent levy on gross revenues included in the Senate tax bill, although this group had been under heavy pressure for some days before that tax was adopted.

The character of the renewed selling was described in important brokerage quarters as similar to that of recent sessions when liquidation of impaired collateral in accounts by banks and selling by estates and such investing concerns as fire insurance companies and investment trusts were regarded as probably the most important factors. A substantial part of the day's selling was said to have come from the interior.

The extent of the decline has led to much discussion in banking quarters of establishing arbitrary minimum prices on leading bonds and stocks for loaning purposes on the theory that the market no longer represented true values. It was felt that this might check the vicious circle of selling out of impaired loans. One of the leading bankers, however, said in response to a query that he had opposed artificial price fixing of commodities. He felt that it would be harmful in the long run.

The completion of a tax bill by the Senate had a distinctly good effect in foreign markets, where prices generally were higher. A sharp rise in Berlin was partly in response to talk of inflation in that country, but the new chancellor later let it be known that all inflationary projects would be rejected.

Politics Here and in Europe Again Disturb

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

[illegible] CONTINUES to [illegible] and impair [illegible] and Europe would [illegible] of wasteful [illegible] both the politicians [illegible] create the impression that [illegible] are doing [illegible] to relieve [illegible] and [illegible]

The ousting [illegible] Chancellor Bruening [illegible] interpreted [illegible] financial circles here as [illegible] containing deeper meaning [illegible] than has been publicly released. The move is viewed as not unrelated [illegible] Lausanne. The apparent [illegible] France to hesitate [illegible] to extremes in pressing reparation payments.

At home political wrangling, political cross-crossing, political [illegible] political delay are [illegible] related economic unemployment. Could the total cost of each additional day's deadlock squabbling by Congress be computed, even the most irresponsible politician could not fail to be awed. Every class in the land has to contribute in paying the penalty for the working classes, merchants, manufacturers, railroads, utilities, oil and mining companies, the professional classes [illegible] everybody.

Never was there more profound truth invested in the adage, Delays are dangerous.

Influential financial interests privately confess frankly they see no use attempting to cooperate to turn the adverse tide until Congress finishes its job and goes home.

It is something, however, to know that the financial powers-that-be plan affirmative action as soon as the congressional storm passes.

THE QUESTION of closing the New York Stock Exchange has been seriously considered in responsible circles. So has the fixing of minimum prices for securities.

The decision to date has been against either course. One inner circle financier observed to me:

"Closing the stock exchange or fixing minimum prices would be very bad, terrible. It would blast confidence in this country and its securities. If liquidations could not be carried on here, markets unquestionably would be set up elsewhere—in London and Montreal, for example. Foreign holders of American investments would lose faith in them and would dump them regardless of prices."

Almost every banker readily admits that securities are selling ridiculously below their real worth. But when borrowers ask to have their collateral appraised on that principle objections are raised.

Bankers explain that they are the custodians of other people's money that their first duty is to the owners of the money that it would be both unjust and unsafe to lend more than the current market value of the pledged securities and that therefore loans must either be kept sound, or sold out.

Thus it comes about that banks as a whole are aggravating the debacle by pressing bonds and stocks on the market day after day. Thus it comes about, too, that more and more of their remaining loans are weakened, and these in turn have to be liquidated.

It isn't easy for the layman to understand why seeing that bankers are convinced many securities are selling at absurd prices, they have not shown greater readiness to invest surplus funds in security bargains. The Federal Reserve has pumped enough funds into the banks to make possible the use of several billions of additional capital. But lamentably little of these reserves has gone beyond the banks' own vaults.

THE DIVIDEND records which this column has compiled many years reveal that during May there were only 20 favorable announcements as contrasted with 174 unfavorable declarations. The immediate outlook dividendwise is no inspiring.

THE SECOND half of the year will either be a lot better or a lot worse than the first half. At least in a limited sense Congress may be said to hold the key.

BUSINESS TRIED TO MAKE GOAT OF CONGRESS

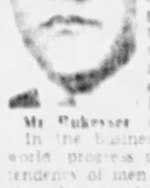
Chiefs of Business, Finance Rely on Obsolete Dogmas; Hoover's Stand Confusing

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
(Universal Service)

NEW YORK, June 1.—The month of May has been another disappointing period.

Though characterized by some technical financial improvement, the month was marked by an attempt on the part of businessmen and bankers to make Congress the goat for economic shortcomings. Though



Mr. Rukeyser

I believe that the delay of the national legislature has been an important contributing cause of the acceleration of pessimism, especially the stupidity on tax and appropriation matters, I recognize that a complexity of causes other than political has been operative.

In the business and financial world progress is retarded by a tendency of men in high posts to close their minds to the facts and to rely on obsolete economic dogmas. Sir Josiah Stamp, brilliant British director of the Bank of England, commented on this tendency during his recent trip to the United States.

The new and creative business leaders are more concerned with the photographic reports of accountants than with the questionable generalities of dead economists and in reality were only describing conditions existing in their own time. New leaders are more impressed with objective data than with unworkable theories, and they believe that doctrines and policies must be subjected to the pragmatic test of whether they work.

HOOVER CONFUSES

Consistency, of course, is not the highest virtue but President Hoover's switches on economic questions are somewhat confusing to those who are seeking to follow him. Back in 1923, when as chairman of the President's conference on unemployment, he wrote a foreword to the experts' report favoring acceleration of public works in time of depression and retardation in time of boom, he did more than any one else to popularize the idea. In his latest utterances he does not seem to adhere to his earlier position.

Furthermore, in the White House conferences of November, 1929, the President, with the idea of minimizing the depression, asked railroad, public utility and industrial executives to keep up their program of capital expenditures in 1930. He also asked them to maintain wage rates. At that time, he was expounding the economic philosophy of maintaining an equilibrium by deliberate spending — presumably for the purpose of maintaining consumer purchasing power.

Even at that time, such views were not universally held, although a desire to stand behind the President kept the critics quiet. Nevertheless, the president of a large industrial corporation —one of the stock exchange blue chips—as a spokesman for the opposing school told me that he thought the President was on the wrong track and that he believed that the way toward salvation lay in working and saving, rather than in borrowing and buying.

LOSSES CATALOGUED

Mr. Hoover's recent utterances against a bond issue for public works indicate that he has been converted. Is it fair for the convert to be so intolerant toward his former adherents who still think as he did in November, 1929, that there is a social utility in deliberately planning job creating construction, instead of slaughtering prosperity through universal pulling in of horns?

The chairman of the Senate committee which is investigating the stock exchange hazarded the guess that public losses were due to 10 per cent of fraud and 90 per cent of avarice and cupidity.

Influential Treasury officials still lean to the view that the country may need something artificial to break the ice. It seems to me that the use of the word "artificial" is unfortunate. Even though business planning in the United States is unco-ordinated, much of "demand" is created through advertising, through window displays, and through the sheer lure of merchandise.

Likewise, "supply," in so far as industrial products are concerned, is not something natural and spontaneous, but is the result of the best thinking and judgment of industrial managers. If we could apply the experience and practices of a minority of our best-managed industrial corporations to our national affairs the public would soon begin to benefit from the immense latent promise of our new industrial skill and productive technology.

Prices Ignore Excited Swings on "Big Board;" Trading Volume Small

Securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange ignored the excited swings in the New York market today, with prices remaining in a narrow range throughout the session and volume showing no change from the previous day's low rate of activity.

The early bulge in New York brought no response from the local stock list and the subsequent reaction on the "big board" likewise had no influence here. Trading continued in small volume with most of the transactions consisting of odd-lot sales at prices showing only small fractional changes from the previous day's closing levels.

COTTON PRICES IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, June 1.—Cotton opened irregular today 6 points up to 6 points off with near months relatively easier on Liverpool liquidation and later deliveries rather steady. July sold at 5.76.

The trade, however, placed a constructive interpretation on the action of the Senate in passing the tax bill and the market quickly recovered, with trading operations the most active in weeks. The July position declined to 5.17 at the opening, a loss of 6 points from the previous finals, and rallied to 5.31, or a net advance of 8 points.

The advance extended to 5.32 for July and 5.72 for December, but the market then reacted under a renewal of liquidation promoted by a reaction in the stock market and a favorable interpretation of the weekly weather report, which reported seasonable temperatures and sufficient moisture for present needs in most parts of the belt. At midday July had eased to 5.18 and December to 5.56 with the general market 3 to 7 points net lower.

BRUINS NEXT FOR PIRATES

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Neat Job by Buc Pilot. Ranks With Year's Best. Dodgers Fanning Often. Pitt Advance Continues. New Timing Device. Morrison Golf Threat.

GIBSON OVERCOMES HEAVY HANDICAPS

WHILE THEY'RE TOSSING bouquets at some of the other managers in the major leagues whose teams have made unexpectedly good showings, how about a few posies in the direction of George Gibson? No one conceded the Pirates to have a chance for anything better than fifth place, yet today found them tied for third position, only three games below the second notch, and still advancing, while playing ball as steady as any other club in either big league. Gibson has been the driving power and the steadying influence behind the spurt in which the Bucs have won four straight series and 13 of their last 18 games.

George Gibson.

No pilot has accomplished more than Gibby with the same amount of material, and none has worked under greater handicaps. For the first six weeks he was without the services of two starting pitchers in Meine and Kremer, and Brame's loss of form made another regular practically a total loss. The leading two catchers, Finney and Grace, were put out of commission within a space of 24 hours. Comorosky and Thevenow had to be replaced, it was necessary to break in a pair of youngsters around the midway, and lately Traynor has been on the hospital list. No manager ever had a better license to complain of ill luck and bad breaks, but not a grumble nor an alibi came from Gibby. He took it all without a murmur, kept his riddled forces fighting and hustling in the face of gloomy prospects, and the present position of the Bucs after a drive from the depths of last place reflects one of the very best managerial jobs that has been done in the majors this season.

IF DANNY MACFAYDEN, Red Sox pitcher, doesn't figure in one of the trades expected to develop before June 15 brings the deadline, it will not be due to any lack of offers for him. Early in the season the Boston management declared MacFayden would not be sold or traded, but changes are now said to be necessary and other clubs have renewed their efforts to get the bespectacled flinger.

Washington has offered Pitcher Bob Burke and Outfielder Sheriff Harris for MacFayden. Cleveland is reported willing to give Earl Averill and Eddie Morgan for MacFayden, Hal Rhyne and Tom Oliver. Now Connie Mack is in the bidding. It is said he has proposed a trade of Rube Walberg for the Boston pitcher and would gladly enlarge the deal to include Rhyne.

THE DODGERS ARE leading both major leagues as strikeout victims. Max Carey's swingers have fanned 196 times in a total of 43 games played up to date, or an average of more than four to a game. Glenn Wright has struck out more frequently than any other member of the club, having been set down on strikes no fewer than 34 times. George Kelly is not far behind him, with 25, and Hack Wilson comes next with 22.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT Dr. H. C. Carlson will take over the duties of director of the student health service at the University of Pittsburgh, aside from marking a definite step forward in the drawing together of the departments of physical education, intercollegiate athletics and student health, carries on Pitt's informal policy of using more and more members of its athletic coaching staff as full-time members of the faculty. During the last year, nine coaches were either full-time faculty members or students. Dr. Sutherland, Skip Gougler and Ray Montgomery, of the football staff; Joe Orsini, in boxing; Dr. McElroy, in tennis, and Lieut. Wilson, in rifle-shooting, were all faculty members. Joe Donchess, Eddie Baker and Paul Zehfuss, assistant coaches, were students.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

The abolition of the training table, a form of training that the Panthers have not employed in many years, was only one of the reforms in which Pitt was right up among the country's leaders. In a general sense the Pittsburgh school has been one of the foremost in advocating and putting into practice alterations for the uplift of athletics.

IT IS NOT always because he has become tired that a pitcher loses control. A veteran explains that in most instances wildness comes when a hurler changes his stride.

Stride rules control, and when the slabman fails to take his regular stride in delivering the ball he will miss the plate. Some pitchers do not know the cause of certain wildness. Others realize it is stride, but even they have trouble correcting it.

AMONG THE VARIOUS new devices being offered to supplant stop watches and catch the exact time made by sprinters is a machine invented by Dr. Lawrence E. Dodd and W. W. Harper, physicists of the University of California. A copper wire stretched across the muzzle of the starting pistol is broken when the cartridge is fired. This breaks an electric circuit, and a high-speed printing clock, or chronograph, is started. This chronograph registers to the thousandth of a second. At the finishing tape a beam of light shines across the track and falls upon a photo-electric cell. As the runner crosses the finish line he momentarily blocks the beam of light, causing another signal to be sent to the chronograph. Two printed marks result, one indicating the instant of the start and the other the finish. The difference between the two shows the exact time of the runner.

THE GROWING OPPOSITION to the free throw in basketball on the ground that a point so made may decide a game while the defense is powerless to stop it, and that it is wrong to permit a contest in any sport to be won on penalties, has led to a swarm of suggestions aimed to remedy the evil.

The performers are determined to have something done about it, and while not all of them are in favor of eliminating the free throw they are proposing various other measures aimed to avert in a different way the possibility that a single free toss may decide a game.

ONE SUGGESTION IS similar to that offered several times in connection with football reforms, namely, that one-point victories be done away with, and that games must be decided by a margin of at least three points.

Fred Morrison

It is further suggested that the rules be made to stipulate a game cannot be won on a free throw, but must be won on a field goal. If necessary, an extra period would be played. It is held that such a system would prevent an official from deciding a game on a penalty, based on his personal judgment.

CALIFORNIA INSISTS THAT Fred Morrison is not to be overlooked when the best prospects for victory in the coming National open golf championship tournament are being listed. The Los Angeles pro is tipped to be a strong bidder for the title. His win at Agua Caliente gave him the needed confidence, and besides his game is said to be much better than formerly. He always has been one of the longest hitters in the country, and now he shows a marked improvement in his short game, no longer having any fear around the greens.

CHAMP DOWNS U. S. STAR IN SEMI-FINALS

SAUNTON, England, June 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Leona Cheney, last surviving American in the British women's golf championship, was eliminated in the semi-final round today by Enid Wilson, defending titleholder. Miss Wilson won, 3 and 2 after leading all the way.

Miss Purvis-Russell-Montgomery defeated Mrs. H. Clarke, of Ireland, in the other semi-final, 3 and 2 and will play Miss Wilson tomorrow in the 36-hole final.

Mrs. Cheney fought bravely in what proved to be the best match of the tournament so far, but never could quite match the strokes of the tall English girl.

Miss Wilson, a powerful player with the wooden clubs, crushed Mrs. Cheney on the long finishing holes where the American woman had trouble with her brassie.

Playing close to par all the way, Miss Wilson delivered the final blow with a tremendous wood shot to the edge of the sixteenth green while Mrs. Cheney was topping a brassie shot. It was simple then for the British girl to chip up close and sink a six-foot putt for the hole and the match.

GALLANT CAMPAIGN

It was a gallant campaign for a title no American ever has won, and Mrs. Cheney received congratulations from British as well as American onlookers in the galleries for her courageous stand against a woman who must be counted with the great of English golf.

Mrs. Cheney has been off on her driving all week and today used a brassie. She was far behind Miss Wilson at first, but after the turn she held the English girl even from the tee, even outdriving her by some 20 yards on the tenth. The cards:

AT BEST IN MORNING

Mrs. Cheney played one of the most brilliant rounds of the tournament in winning her quarter-finals match this morning at the expense of Miss Beryl Brown, six times Lancashire champion, 3 and 2. She was out in a sparkling 37, and made no mistakes after the tenth, which Miss Brown won to square the match. The cards:

Miss Wilson gained the semi-finals by defeating Miss Kathleen Garnham, 3 and 2, while Mrs. H. Clark was eliminating Miss Wanda Morgan, 2 up, and Miss Purvis-Russell-Montgomery was taking the measure of the Irish champion, Miss Dorothy Ferguson, 4 and 2.

SCOZZA BEATS NICHOLS

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 1.—(AP)—Lou Scozza, eliminated in the N. B. A. light-heavyweight title tournament decisively defeated George Nichols, winner of the championship in that tourney, in a torrid 10-round non-title bout last night. Nichols barely escaped a knockout in the ninth round, when Scozza knocked him down four times, twice for a count of nine and two counts of seven each.

LION CUBS LOSE

BELLEFONTE, Pa., June 1.—The Bellefonte Academy baseball nine closed its season with a victory over the Penn State freshmen by the close score of 8-5 here yesterday.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE STONE THAT SPEAKS—The immense Temple of Heaven, in Peiping, China, consists of a series of altars within small walled enclosures. As I entered the marble-floored temple grounds, formerly used by the Ming emperors to prepare themselves for their ceremonies on the sacred Altar of Heaven, my guide informed me that there was a "Speaking Stone" in the center of the grounds. I stepped on the stone and as I spoke my own voice resounded loudly, as if it came from beneath my feet. This phenomenon can be explained by the fact that this particular stone is in the exact center of the grounds, and the voice of the person standing on it echoes with equal force from all points on the inside of the wall. A WAR OUT OF THE INK-POT—The first Anglo-Chinese War, 1840-1842, was preceded by the seizure and destruction of 21,000 chests of opium which had been smuggled into China in the face of an imperial prohibition. The smuggling was accomplished by a fleet of English and American craft. At the order of Emperor Tankwang, a ruler of great benevolence, the opium—valued at about $12,000,000—was utterly destroyed. The opium incident was a contributory cause for the outbreak of the war, but technically the war was caused by a refusal on the part of the Chinese authorities to cease referring to the English settlers of China as "I" (foreign barbarians). The war lasted two years and ended with the utter rout of the Chinese armed forces, the payment of an indemnity by China in th sum of $21,000,000 and a solemn engagement on the part of China to abolish the objectionable epithet of I. THE BULLET-PROOF GOD—An object of especial veneration by Japanese soldiers and sailors is a small Buddha statue from No-Man's Land in Chapei, which they have named Tamayoke Daishi, or Bullet-proof God. During the heavy bombbardment of Chapei, a temple on Paoshan road was completely destroyed and everything within it demolished except this statue, which had not been touched in the heavy machine gun and artillery fire. After hostilities ceased in March, the image was forwarded to Tokio and consecrated in the compound of the Ministry of the Navy as a spiritual ballistic guardian of the Japanese. It is to be housed in a temple that is being erected from materials of the ruined temple in Shanghai.

TOMORROW: THE TRAGEDY OF ROBERT MORRIS.

$31,050 WON BY FRAME

INDIANAPOLIS, June 1.—(AP)—Checks totaling $31,050 were given to Fred Frame, of Los Angeles, winner of Monday's 500-mile automobile race, at a dinner in honor of the drivers here last night.

Frame got $20,000 from the $60,000 purse offered by the Speedway Corporation; $4,000 for using a certain make of tire; $3,800 in lap prize money; $1,000 from a spark plug company; $1,000 from an oil company, and $1,000 each from two other automobile accessory firms. An electrical organization gave him $250.

Howard Wilcox, of Indianapolis, who finished second, won $12,400. He got $10,000 from the Speedway and the remainder from accessory firms.

Cliff Bergere, of Los Angeles, Cal., the third driver to finish the long grind, received $6,600. Bob Carey, of Anderson, Ind., fourth, $5,800; Russell Snowberger, Philadelphia, fifth, $3,500; Zek Meyer, Philadelphia, sixth, $2,500; Ira Hall, Terre Haute, Ind., seventh, $2,600; Fred Winnai, Philadelphia, eighth, $2,200; Billy Winn, Kansas City, ninth, $2,100; Joe Huff, Indianapolis, tenth, $2,000.

HEISEL COACH

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 1.—Robert H. Heisel, former stellar halfback and graduate of Wash. Jeff. with the class of 1928, has been named football coach at Bentworth High School, according to announcement here. Heisel transfers from Dickinson Seminary at Williamsport, where he coached two years after a period of two years at Lock Haven High School.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Jim Corbett wants to know what this so-called depression is all about . . . Back in his time a heavyweight champion would have been glad to defend the title for a $2,500 purse . . . Now Max Schmeling is to get 40 per cent of a gate of approximately $500,000 for his bout with Jack Sharkey in New York three weeks hence—and they say we're having hard times . . . When Corbett fought Peter Jackson 61 rounds for a stake of $10,000, in 1891, the referee stopped the bout and called it "no contest," and Corbett never collected his share of the swag.

Sharkey says the two bouts that stick out most vividly in his memory are ones that he lost, with Jack Dempsey and Max Schmeling . . . He figures he got a bum deal in the former, when he was counted out after being fouled three times in succession and then hit on the chin in the seventh round, after having Dempsey in a bad way at the start . . . Says he considers Dempsey the most overrated and best protected fighter of our times (that will make a lot of friends for him among the Dempsey followers) . . . As for the Schmeling fight, Sharkey blames his own carelessness for his defeat and says it will be different when they meet again.

"Schmeling was so easy to hit that our fight was a joke up to the time Max went down under a low punch and his manager, Joe Jacobs, jumped into the ring and claimed the title for him," says Jack. "No, I don't think Max has improved much, if any, since then. This time I am going to put steam on my punches right from the start, instead of merely giving him a boxing lesson, and you'll see Jack Sharkey coming out of the ring with the championship, even if he doesn't get much money for it."

It's a tough break that in the year in which the Olympic Games are held in our own country the economic situation should be such that the funds to defray the expenses of our squad are so small that we must retrench in the matter of our forces . . . Only about 10 per cent of the desired amount has been raised, and the situation is a critical one . . . Why is it that we hear so much flamboyant shouting against over-emphasis in football and yet when an outstanding university such as Yale comes forward with a plan to curtail its activities in this direction it receives nothing but severe condemnation even from its own sons? . . . Truly, we are a perverse lot.—HARRY KECK.

CUBS DROP TAYLOR

CHICAGO, June 1.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs have released Harris Taylor, utility first baseman, on option to the Reading club of the International League. Taylor was purchased from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League last winter. The Cubs may recall Taylor on 24 hours' notice.

CRACK RELAY TEAMS CLASH

By JESS CARVER

The boys are shaking their cocos over the sensational sprinting performances of Ben Johnson, crack Plymouth High School Negro cinder scorcher, who flashed over the track at the P. I. A. A. meet in Altoona last Saturday to turn in a 9.8 century and a 21.4 furlong, shattering two state records and equaling the accepted world mark in the longer distance.

The boys are shaking their cocos because they don't think he can, or did, accomplish such a feat, and they are saying things about timekeepers in general and the timers at the P. I. A. A. meet in particular that are not exactly complimentary.

"If that fellow ran that fast—he's plenty-ee good," one well-known track man cracked just yesterday. "I don't think he can do it, and I don't think he did it, and I don't think there was anyone in either field fast enough to press him to such marks."

Speaking of track, the Junior A. M. A. championship meet at Reeves Stadium, Beaver Falls, Saturday will offer a wow of a mile relay race as the Geneva and Pitt varsity quartets hook up. Geneva is confident that his Fair Thomas-anchored team will be able to take the Monheim-Keller-Harris-Watkins lineup entered by the Panthers.

BUCCOS DOWN REDS TO TIE FOR THIRD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

George Gibson's peppery Pirates relaxed and made merry today after completing a fortnight of strenuous doings.

Larry French

Two weeks ago, when the Freebooters left for St. Louis, they were crammed in the National League cellar. Yesterday, they defeated the Reds to mark up their eleventh victory in 14 games and as a result of their latest triumph bounded into a third-place deadlock with the Cincinnati boys.

In view of their long ordeal, the home players were tickled over the open date which their playing card affords this afternoon. Manager Gibson ordered a short workout to keep the athletes toned up, but the off-day, for the most part, was at the disposal of the deserting diamond performers.

Aside from Capt. Pie Traynor, the Bucco came through the two hard weeks in a fine manner. Pie suffered an injury to his throwing arm in Friday's game with St. Louis. The sore spot still bothers him, but the team captain is receiving treatment and it is likely he will be able to resume his work in the course of a few days.

CUBS HERE NEXT

The league-leading Cubs will come to town tomorrow for the purpose of playing a three-day series at the Oakland orchard. Quite naturally, the Bucs will be eager to take a few pot shots at the pace-setters, this being a favorite diversion among those who trail the leaders. At the conclusion of Saturday's scrap the two clubs will hurry to Chicago for a Sunday game. From Chicago, the Buccos will move to Philadelphia, where, on Tuesday, they will begin their first invasion of the East.

Larry French, aided by a circus catch by Big Dave Barbee and some more fine hitting on the part of the Waners, landed a 4-to-1 triumph over the Reds yesterday in the rubber game of the three-game set. The Waner act went over beautifully in the first inning, which produced three runs and French proceeded to carry on the victory.

Dixie Dave gave the small crowd a thrill as he turned in one of the greatest plays of the year at the home orchard. It happened in the sixth, with runners on second and first, two out and three runs needed to tie. Gilbert lifted a short fly to left. It was either a double or a sensational catch. The big left fielder dove headlong and took the ball off the grass tops. The tying run would have been on second had he failed.

After French had retired three Reds in the first, L. Waner greeted Lucas with a single to right. Lloyd scooted to third as Herman fumbled the ball. Brother Paul whipped a hit to right as the Waner act went over for a tally. Paul stole second and he counted when Vaughan tripled down the right field line. Barbee's long single to center scored Vaughan.

Grace pried off the second with a double to right. French popped out in a sacrifice attempt. After Brother Lloyd had flied out, P. Waner singled to right to score the catcher.

Grantham was out in the fourth when Herman singled to center. Hafey also singled to center. Herman stopping at second. Lombardi singled to left, scoring Herman. Hafey going to third on Barbee's fumble. Heilman's fly to Barbee was short and Hafey stayed at third. Gelbert flied to P. Waner.

AL BROWN VICTOR

PARIS, June 1.—(AP)—Panama Al Brown, generally recognized as the world bantamweight champion, outpointed Rene Matthieu, Belgian featherweight, in a 10-round bout last night.

MRS. MOODY CONTINUES TENNIS ADVANCE

HELEN GAINS SEMI-FINALS IN FRANCE

AUTEUIL, France, June 1 (AP.)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, seeking her fourth French title, today defeated Mlle. Payot, of Switzerland, in a quarter-final match in the French tennis championships.

Mrs. Wills won the title in 1928, 1929 and 1930, but did not defend last year.

She will play Hilda Krahwinkel, German finalist last year, in the semi-finals. Fraulein Krahwinkel defeated Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, the fifth British player in the quarter-finals.

G. Lyttleton Rogers, veteran International player, defeated Christian Boussus, third ranking French player, in the first round, 8-7, 6-3.

Henri Cochet, French favorite, won the title defender Jacques Brugnon's Cup player, 6-2, 7-5, 6-1 in the third round.

HORSE SHOW SEALS' TOPIC

Listeners on the weekly program of the Trained Seals of the sports department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock this evening will hear what a horse show is all about.

R. T. M. McCready, of Fairworth, a leading breeder and exhibitor of show horses will be the guest speaker, in connection with the annual show of the Allegheny

Dr. McClelland R. T. M. McCready

Country Club at Sewickley, which opens tomorrow and continues through Friday and Saturday. The show is being held as a benefit for the Allegheny County Welfare Association, in dire need of funds to carry on its work of aiding the unemployed.

McCready has exhibited in Madison Square Garden, New York, and other leading shows and is an outstanding authority on the subject.

Also on the program will be Dr. W. D. McClelland, former University of Pittsburgh football star and erstwhile state Boxing Commissioner, who will continue his cross-fire with Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, begun last week. In addition to continuing his football chat, he will delve into boxing and wrestling.

Miss Marian Salmon will be the pianist, and Tom Birks and Julius Levin, of the sports department, also will participate in the program.

WOOD FARMED TO TULSA

Charley Wood, youthful left-hand pitcher of the Pittsburgh club, who underwent an operation for appendicitis while the Pirates were in spring training, today was farmed out to the Tulsa club of the Western League. Wood will join Art Griggs' club in a day or two.

In making the announcement, President W. E. Benswanger, of the Pirates, stated that Wood notified him this morning he was ready for action again. Wood starred for Wichita of the same league before coming to the Pirates. The Wichita franchise, controlled by Pittsburgh, was transferred to Tulsa during the past winter. The Pirates also operate Tulsa, so that the left-hander can be secured in a hurry. The transaction cuts the Pittsburgh roster to the alloted 23 players. All clubs must be down to that limit by June 15.

William Hinchman, Jr., son of William Hinchman, Pirate scout, left today to join the Binghamton club of the N. Y.-Pa. League. The younger Hinchman, who has been working out with the Pirates, played baseball and football at Ohio State University.

DOTT WINS LETTER

COLUMBUS, O., June 1 (AP.)—Harry Dott, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dott, 827 Fairdale street, Pittsburgh, has been awarded a letter for his work as cross-country manager at Capital University here. A total of the same exercises he received a pin for his two years' membership in the band.

ANOTHER FOR PAUL

ALLEGHENY, CARNEGIE WIN

Allegheny took out a one-game lead in the City League baseball championship race at Greenlee Field and the Tartans captured the crown as a new W. P. I. A. L. champion as Schwartz hurled a two-hit, 10-inning pitching classic.

Allegheny, meeting Section 1 runner-up, defeated Westinghouse of Section 2, 1-0 to 4. It will be Allegheny's game to win the first game of the annual three-game series for the city title. The second game must be won by Carnegie Institute, Paul Kwalik, of Allegheny, and Dr. Sauer, of Westinghouse.

Allegheny won in the eleventh when Evans singled, stole second and went to third when Dr. Sauer committed a balk. He scored when the Westinghouse hurler followed with a wild pitch a minute later.

SECOND HEAT FRIDAY

The second game of the series will be played Friday afternoon at Greenlee Field.

In the W. P. I. A. L. elimination tournament, Carnegie upset the dope by eliminating the defending champion McKeesport at Edgar Thomson Field, North Braddock, 4 to 3 and will meet Ambridge, champion of Section II, at Forbes Field Friday evening for the title.

The Carnegie-McKeesport contest was a struggle between two fine hurlers, Rubnik, of the champions, and Kim, of Carnegie. Kim fanned 15 and Rubnik a dozen. Carnegie won with a rally in the ninth inning. Bozzi, a pinch hitter, rapping out a double that drove the winning run across.

In a non-league game, Crafton defeated Shady Side, 8 to 2.

MT. LEBANON VICTOR

Mt. Lebanon captured the Interscholastic Tennis Conference championship by lacing Taylor Allderdice, 4 to 1, on the Pitt Stadium courts yesterday.

Fleishman and Thompson scored the lone point for the losers by defeating the Mt. Lebanon duo of Balch and Grier in the doubles.

Twenty-four grade schools of the South Side district are competing in a track and field meet at Olympic Park, Mt. Washington, this afternoon.

Jackie Fields Set To Resume Boxing

CHICAGO, June 1.—(AP.)—A threat of blindness removed Jackie Fields, world welterweight champion, today prepared to resume activity.

Fields suffered impairment of the vision of his right eye about two weeks ago, and it was feared he might not be able to box again. However, his physician, Dr. Harry S. Cradle, said the trouble had yielded to treatment.

Fields was scheduled to defend his title against Young Corbett, of Fresno, Cal., at San Francisco, June 25, but probably will ask postponement until late in July.

Fight Results

At Buffalo—Leo Rosser defeated George [illegible]

At Evansville—Roy Wallace defeated Charley Gilbert, 10 rounds. Billy Miller knocked out Bob Jones in 6 rounds.

At Indianapolis—Mickey Dupe knocked out Tommy Bland in 4 rounds. Walter Rapp defeated Kaiser Ferguson, 8 rounds.

At Newark, N. J.—Pete Adams defeated Vincent Restivo, 10 rounds. Jackie Purnell defeated George Vukcevich, 8 rounds.

At Vancouver, B. C.—Lee Page defeated Neil Ferguson, 8 rounds.

At Newark, N. J.—Frankie Penn knocked out Pinky Kaufman, 1 round.

BOUT POSTPONED

CHICAGO, June 1.—(AP.)—The 10-round bout scheduled here June 14 between Tommy Paul, National Boxing Association featherweight champion, and Eddie Martin, Mexico, has been postponed until June 28. Paul requested the delay because of business in the East. He won the title in Baltimore in the elimination tournament there.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—That slogan, "Youth will be served," is O. K., but it only applies to speakeasies. Look at those Boston Braves. The mainspring of their infield is Rabbit Maranville, who was with 'em back in 1914 when they copped their last pennant. Rabbit must be nigh on to 90 years old by now. I know for a fact he was a drummer boy in the Battle of Gettysburg and he cast his first vote for President Garfield.

Old Tommy Zachary, pitching for the Braves, is no spring capon, either. When Zach was playing for our Washington club he was a great-great-grandfather and he must have aged up a little since then.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Hoping to keep pace with the Meyers Bowl and its all-star cards, the new Greenlee Field Boxing Club has announced that it will open its season one week from tonight with a program of four 10-round bouts with Maxie Rosenbloom, world light-heavyweight champion, meeting Larry Johnson, Negro, of Chicago, in the main event and Ray Miller, of Detroit, opposing Johnny Datto, Cleveland Filipino, in the semi-final. The other bouts will be announced within a few days.

Matchmaker Jules Beck said the arena would feature 6,000 seats at $1, with the others selling at $2 and $3.

With the exception of a possible change in the opening bout of the latter affair, the cards are complete for the shows to be held at Hickey Park tomorrow night and the Meyers Bowl next Monday.

MAY DROP COLLINS

Marty Gornick, of Whitaker, is paired with Ray Collins, of Erie, in the first of four 10-rounders at the Bowl, but, in view of Collins' very sad exhibition against Sammy Dorfman in his last showing here, the bout being stopped, and his two-round knockout by Tony Herrera in Chicago since, the chances are that another foe will be dug up for the now formidable Gornick, who showed a great punch in stowing away Matty Oldach, of Erie, in the opening show in Millvale.

Midget Wolgast, the flyweight champion, boxes Tony Marino, of Duquesne, in the top spot, and Tony Herrera meets Eddie (Kid) Wolfe and Jack Kilbourne opposes Angel Gitville in the other battles at the Bowl.

ROSANNA VS. HAZEL

Chink Rosanna, of Uniontown, making his professional debut, has been matched with Johnny Hazel, of the Hill, for the second bout of six rounds to complete the Millvale program. Jack Watson, of Erie, and Bearcat Jones, middleweights, are in another six-rounder. Young Rudz and Red Artis, the latter of Philadelphia, meet in the semi-final, with Bobby Rowe and Jimmy White in the four-round opener, and Buck McTiernan and Tommy Freeman are in the main bout.

Between Rounds

Tommy Loughran and Slats Hamas may meet a third time as a result of the decision of opinion as to the winner of their second clash in Philadelphia recently, after Hamas had won the first bout in New York by a knockout.

Ronny Ross meets Harry Carlton in Jersey City next Monday night.

Joey Sarlins is in with Trader Horn and 10 rounds at New Brunswick, N. J., tomorrow night.

Paul Snyder will box Mick Pirrone, Ed. Paul Pirrone will meet Al Phillips and Jackie Wolfe is due to box with George Lach in three 3-round bouts on the amateur card of the Tuxedo seventh Ward A. A. U. in the outdoor arena on the North Side, Friday night.

Danny Delmont, Chicago lightweight boxer, who appeared around here last winter, now is boxing in California.

Nice Larry Gains, Toronto Negro heavyweight prospect. He goes along beating everyone and seemingly gets little recognition. His latest feat of sporting Primo Carnera as punchy and drubbing him in 10 rounds before 20,000 fans in London finally should command some real attention for him and send him in the money class of the division.

VALLEY TENNIS LOOP FORMED

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Beaver County tennis is much alive again, according to word received at Pittsburgh Tennis Association headquarters yesterday from down that-a-way, said word conveying news that the coming week-end will see inauguration of hostilities in a newly-organized Beaver Valley Tennis League, sporting eight strong squads and embarking on a schedule that calls for activity from Saturday until August 6.

Aliquippa, Freedom, Ambridge, Monaca, Beaver Falls, College Hill, Koppel and Beaver are the outfits holding franchises in the valley group, stars of the old College Hill team, late of the P. T. A. Inter-Club loop, forming nucleus of several of the aggregations entered. The Campbell boys, Don Reader, Stewart Snodgrass, Johnny Hecker, Arnold Alan, Jack, Harold Mathieson, Bill Potts and numerous performers of similar rank will compete.

Howard E. Campbell, captain of the 1931 College Hill crew in the P. T. A. chase, is president of the Beaver Valley wheel. Campbell's wide experience as both player and leader will stand the Beaverites in excellent stead and will unquestionably prove of vast help to P. T. A. expansionists in their Beaver County missionary program. H. C. Mathieson, Sr., father of Pittsburgh Center Boys' champion, Harold Mathieson, of Koppel, is vice president with W. C. Jack, Freedom veteran and parent of Alan Jack, holding the secretary-treasurer post.

Information from H. Charles Rawlins, executive secretary of the Middle States L. T. A., states that the Westmoreland County open tourney, slated for the Greensburg Country from July 1 to 4, has been formally sanctioned by the U. S. L. T. A.

MAXIE TO BOX OAKMONT ENTRY SCORES UPSET VICTORY

By TOM BIRKS

The big surprise of the competitive golf season was sprung yesterday afternoon at Oakmont when Mrs. A. S. Dayton, a member of the home club, shot a semi-medal 94 which with a 19 handicap gave her a net 75, to lead a strong field of women golfers in the second Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf Association one-day tournament.

It has been many moons since a second division golfer has been able to land a triumph, but Mrs. Dayton played consistent golf over the hazardous 18 holes. Mrs. Dayton won both low net and low gross prizes.

When Mrs. Dayton completed her round she found that Mrs. C. J. Wendt had shot a 93, and the committee, confident that this score could not be beaten, had presented her the low gross prize. Needless to say, the popular Field Club Mar hurried to pay her respects to the winner.

MISS CASEY VICTOR

Rosemary Casey, of Longue Vue, won the second division low net prize, and Christine McKelvey won in the third division. Some of the better known stars found the going tough. Anteannette Hunter, the home champion, picked up Betty Abernathy, always a consistent scorer, finished her round with a buzzard 9 on the eighteenth hole that gave her 100.

The women will swing into action this afternoon in the third week of the team matches, both sections having duels scheduled. Section I will play at Edgewood and Section II will clash at the Pittsburgh Country Club layout.

KISKI FAVORED

At Oakmont Country Club today, the final of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Golf Conference will be played as Kiski and Shady Side clash for the title. Despite the fact that golf is an uncertain game, it would be hard to figure just how Jim Marks' Kiski stars are going to be beaten.

Kiski has rung up one of the greatest records ever posted in school golf and on the season's form, with the scalps of Pitt and Duquesne dangling from their belt, there is every reason to feel that the Saltsburg boys will annex another trophy this afternoon.

Yesterday's women's scores follow:

ARMLESS GOLFER STARS

Gripping his clubs between his neck, shoulder and face, Tommy McAuliffe, known as the champion armless golfer of the world, stroked the difficult Oakmont course yesterday in 98. He averaged 135 yards from the tee and his short game was excellent. He played with Carl Kauffmann, three times national public links champion. McAuliffe is appearing at a local theater.

His card follows:

SANDLOT GAMES TODAY

CITY LEAGUE

Homewood at Dormont.
J. L. Thomas at Ferris.
North Siders at Reliance.

WEST PENN LEAGUE

Carr at Homestead Aces.

COUNTY LEAGUE

Pitcairn at Scott Mohawks.

ALLEGHENY VALLEY LEAGUE

New Kensington at East Deer.
Herman at Parnassus.
Peterson at Curtisville.

GREATER PITTSBURGH LEAGUE

(City Section)

West End at McGraths.

CENTRAL PITTSBURGH LEAGUE

Johnson at Morse.

Two outstanding games are scheduled on the sandlots this evening, and in both contests the teams are fighting for league leaderships.

Dormont, striving to overtake Books, will entertain Homewood in the City League, and while it is expected that the champions will win, the Homewood club is considered strong enough to upset the dope.

At Homestead, the Aces will try to fight off the Carrick Eagle threat by beating the St. Clair Frogs. St. Clair has been going great guns, and the Aces have a tough evening ahead of them.

The Books and Homewood nines turned in City League triumphs last evening, Books defeated the North Siders, 6 to 1; Homewood nosed out J. L. Thomas, 5 to 4, and Reliance Life and the Frank Ferris teams played a 1-1 tie.

With the City League first-half eligible list closing tonight, the Dormont club added George Frey, utility infielder, to its list.

Jimmy Bradley, the southpaw, and Joe Skladany have signed with the Stowe Geislers. Clarence Geis, Dan Laboon and Ray O'Brien have signed with the Ferris club.

BEARS BUY MOORE

PORTLAND, Ore., June 1.—(AP.)—Tom Turner, president of the Portland Baseball Club, has announced the sale of Jim Moore, infielder, to Newark, of the International League.

UMP, PLAYERS DISCIPLINED OVER FIGHT

CLEVELAND, June 1.—(AP.)—The Memorial Day "Battle of the Runway" cost four of Chicago's pugnacious White Sox a total of $1,350 in fines, a 10-day suspension for one, and a severe reprimand for George Moriarity, veteran umpire who offered to fight the whole White Sox team.

Mentioning that he had never heard of such an incident in 21 years of baseball, William Harridge, president of the American League, suspended Milton Gaston, pitcher, for 10 days and fined him $500. Lew Fonseca, manager, was fined $500, Charley Berry, catcher, $250, and Frank Grube, catcher, $100.

The Sox coach, Johnny Butler, was suspended for five days without pay for using profane language. Harridge said the umpire's report indicated that Gaston was the only player actually involved in the fisticuffs in which Moriarity was floored and cut by spikes after he had broken his hand on Gaston's jaw, flooring the pitcher.

Tartan Fencers Win in Tourney

First place in every bout was awarded the Carnegie Tech Fencers' Club in the second annual fencing competition, held at the campus gymnasium on Saturday. The events included foil bouts for women, foil bouts for men, dueling swords and sabers.

Other teams taking part were the Greensburg Club, the Y. M. and W. H. A., and the Homestead Club. Medals were awarded the winners by George Postgate, Carnegie instructor in fencing, who sponsored the meet. About 300 persons attended.

LUCAS AIMING AT OLD ALEX'S FRAY RECORD

Associated Press

Charles (Red) Lucas, star member of Cincinnati's mound staff, apparently is out to set a modern record for complete games pitched in a season and with the full approval of Manager Dan Howley.

This far, the popular red-head has started and finished 10 contests with the campaign less than a third gone, and has won seven of them. At that pace, he stands an even chance of equalling or bettering the modern mark of 36 complete games set by Grover Cleveland Alexander back in 1915.

That Col. Howley is in sympathy with Lucas' ambition was demonstrated yesterday, when the Reds took a 4-to-1 beating from Pittsburgh and fell back into a tie with the Pirates for third.

The battle for top position in the National remained at a standstill, as both Chicago and Boston won. The Cubs defeated St. Louis, 3 to 1, behind Lon Warneke's six-hit pitching, while Ed Brandt southpawed the Braves to a 7-to-2 triumph over the Giants.

Lusty hitting by Heinie Manush in the extra inning enabled Washington to take a hot one from the Athletics, 5 to 4, in 12 rounds.

The day's only other contest in the American resulted in a 6-to-5 victory for the embattled Chicago White Sox over Cleveland.

STEEL OUTLOOK IMPROVING

NEW YORK, June 1.—Iron Age tomorrow will say:

"Mild improvement is in evidence in some steel products but has not reached mill books in time to prevent another slight decline this week in ingot output to 23 per cent of the country's capacity this lowered rate being partly brought about by the holiday.

"Gains in orders are most noticeable in structural steel and tin plate. Structural steel lettings of 31,000 tons are the largest for any week since late December. Tin plate operations are approaching a 50 per cent rate following a few weeks at 45 per cent, and further improvement is in prospect for June.

"The railroad equipment trade has been so bare of business that an order for 50 gondola cars for the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the request for bids on rebuilding 150 gondola cars for the Western Maryland are worthy of mention.

"Interest in automobile prospects centers in the rapid expansion of output by the Ford Motor Company, which has now reached 4,500 cars a day five days a week. The Ford schedule for June contemplates production of 110,000 units.

"In general, the steel industry's prospects for the summer months are reasonably promising when compared with the performance of recent months. Raw material prices are very weak. A reduction in heavy melting steel scrap in Eastern Pennsylvania brings The Iron Age composite price for that commodity down to $7.33, a new low record for all time. The Iron Age composit prices for finished steel and pig iron are unchanged at 2.087c a pound, for the former and $14.06 a gross ton for the latter."

Weather Damages West Canada Wheat

WINNIPEG, June 1. Conditions for growth of wheat in Western Canada turned worse during the past week. The crop was late, but bad winds and for a few days a hot sun absorbed much of the surface moisture, which had promised much at the start. The areas that suffered much from the drought last year have had no rain. The last four days of the week were unseasonably cold, with frosts at many points.

Stations Stay Open In 'Gas' Tax Fight

DETROIT, June 1.—Federal Judge O'Brien has entered a temporary order restraining the Secretary of State from closing the 1,947 Michigan stations of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana because of an alleged tax delinquency. The order will be in effect until June 6, when an order for the Secretary of the State to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued, has been set for hearing.

'Big Board' Seat Sells at $68,000

NEW YORK, June 1.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership at $68,000, a decline of $5,000 from the last previous sale. This is the lowest price since the present decline got under way three years ago.

MORE THAN LOVE -:- -:- Story of Love and Romance Complete in Six Installments -:- -:- By LEWIS ALLEN BROWNE

Love Follows Quickly When Author and Illustrator Meet in Odd Way

CHAPTER I.

Leland Forbes, author of standard books on bird life, sat comfortably behind a Virginia rail fence, watching a hermit thrush.

Suddenly Forbes swung his hat and said, "Sho o o o!"

Naturally the bird showed with alacrity. Forbes made some notes.

"Oh!" cried a feminine voice. "Of all mean things to do!"

Forbes was as startled as the thrush he had frightened away.

A girl had come to the other side of the fence and was staring angrily at him—an unusually pretty girl.

"I—I beg your pardon," Forbes stammered.

"What good does begging my pardon do now, I would like to know?"

There was a hint of tears in her pretty eyes—tears of anger.

"It is quite the thing to do, isn't it?" Forbes asked. He had always been diffident in the company of girls and now he wished he were very far away from there.

"If you are trying to be fresh—you have a sad sense of humor," the girl declared, evidently not much as a school-teacher would eye a naughty scholar. "I've a mean to do."

"Mean? How so? I did not injure the merlindae in the least."

Forbes tried to speak sharply as though he refused to be scolded. The girl seemed suddenly amazed.

"You know the family then?" she asked.

"I never met you before," Forbes said coldly. "Certainly I don't know your family."

"There is no need for you to be fresh—insolent. You know very well that I referred to the thrush family. You called it by its family name."

Forbes was surprised at this and eyed the pretty girl sharply.

"So you know the name? You see, I often think of birds by their family names. I meant no offense and I wasn't trying to be fresh. I haven't sufficient interest in—er—ladies of any age to attempt freshness."

"Then why were you so mean as to shoo the bird away just as I was trying to get a picture?"

APOLOGIZES TO GIRL

Leland Forbes stepped up to the fence, then and looked over. Here was another surprise for him—a camera set up on a tripod and half hidden with the branch of a bush. Down the road a car was parked.

"I have been trying and trying," the girl said as he stared at the camera, "to get a good picture of a hermit thrush and you go and spoil it!"

"Why—why—do you think I knew that you were here, much less, trying to get a picture?"

Forbes was becoming embarrassed.

"It looked like the trick of some smart aleck. You were probably watching me through the fence."

"Listen, young lady," Forbes said, sternly, "I scared that bird deliberately. I wanted to watch his leg and wing action when he took off. I did not know you were there. I repeat: I wouldn't have frightened the bird for worlds if I knew you were interested in the fad of photographing our birds. I am sorry."

The girl eyed him suspiciously for a moment. She liked his appearance, his Irish brunette type, dark wavy hair and blue eyes. She liked the little touches of silver in his hair at the sides.

"It isn't a fad, unless earning my bread and butter is a fad. I photograph birds and make colored plates, drawings."

FOR HIS BOOK

Then you had a right to be angry, under a mistaken idea that I was teasing you. What do you do with your photographs and colored drawings?"

"Sell them. Maxim & Co. buy them, but you wouldn't know them; they are publishers. Just now I am getting illustrations for another of Leland Forbes' books on bird life, but I suppose that doesn't mean anything to you, either. However, I accept your apology and offer one myself for scolding you."

Leland Forbes climbed the rail fence and stood before her, hat in hand.

"Forgive me, Miss Morse," he said.

The girl backed away and eyed him in amazement.

"Oh, you probably got my name from the Boyd Hotel register."

He shook his head and smiled.

"I'll tell you what I will do. I will see that you get a good picture of a hermit thrush and more. I will take you over to Leland Forbes' place and make him invite you to tea."

"You know Mr. Forbes then?"

"Quite well."

Miss Jeanette Morse stared at him a moment.

"Oh!" she exclaimed, and her cheeks turned redder. "You used the name merulidae. Only an ornithologist would do that. Say, are you Leland Forbes?"

"Don't hold it against me," he said.

"Oh, for goodness sake—and I scolded you!"

VISITS HIS HOME

"How about the invitation to tea? I've often wondered what sort of a person this J. Morse was who illustrated my books. I thought it was probably some anaemic old codger named John."

"But Mr. Forbes, I was told, lives in Connecticut."

"I was born there, have a place there, but I also have a place here in the outskirts of Wytheville. Bird life is plentiful here in spring and fall."

"I'm delighted and embarrassed, Mr. Forbes."

He took down her camera and went to her car, standing on the running board.

"It's only a quarter of a mile," he said, and then, as they reached a sycamore shaded driveway, he told her to drive in.

The house was small, good colonial and surrounded by beautiful trees and flowering shrubs. An old colored man came out and seemed surprised to behold Forbes with a young lady.

"Set tea things on the west porch, Mose," Forbes ordered, and send Violet in."

He took Miss Morse into the handsome old library, and she smiled as Violet entered, for Violet was the wife of Mose, very dark and very fat and very smiling.

"Take Miss Morse up to the guest room," he ordered.

A little later they were having tea on the west porch. Beaten biscuit, wild honey and then fried chicken.

STILL EMBARRASSED

Wistaria made a colorful and sweet scented screen through which Jeanette Morse could see the beautiful lawn and flowers, bird baths, a handsome English setter and mulberry trees dripping with fruit and alive with birds after it.

"I want to gush," Jeanette said.

"No, not permitted. Dislike gushers."

"I'm still blushing over scolding you."

"A regular bawling out! I rather like you for it; it shows spirit."

They discussed shop, then, about his books and her illustrations.

In the kitchen fat Violet was shaking her head at Mose.

"Ain't hit th' beatenest," she said, "him bein' skeered of all wimmin ever sence we know'd him, and now he come totin' home a purty vallet haired doll cool as yo' please?"

"Naw," old Mose disputed, "hit ain't th' beatenest. Purty gals always gits them a man when they sets out an' from what I seen she's set out an' he's in a sot of trance over her."

There was a great deal of truth in what Mose said.

The afternoon passed rapidly. Forbes showed Jeanette some of his chapters and she told him of the illustrations she had already made for his new book. Forbes always sent to his publishers a list of illustrations necessary.

He suggested that she leave her car and camera at his place and he would take her to the hotel, calling for her the next morning early.

"The birds are out at five you know."

"Not this bird," Jeanette assured him, "eight will do."

He got her at eight. They secured three good pictures of the hermit thrush and enjoyed another luncheon on his west porch. They were calling each other Leland and Jeanette.

When Jeanette awoke the next morning she stood at the open window, staring out at the water-gulled side of Boyd's hill and watching the red cedar birds. She was very happy and began to sing about the day being at the morn and the morn being at seven, not omitting the lark and dew-pearled hillside.

"God's in His heaven,

And it was all right then for Jeanette had fallen madly in love with Leland Forbes.

More than that, being a girl of cleverness and astuteness, she knew well enough that Leland Forbes was deeply interested in her and that, aside from his interest in her work, there was a romantic interest overshadowing everything else.

Days sped rapidly. Jeanette sent many pictures up to New York to Maxim & Co., but she did not mention to Mr. Maxim that she was down in Virginia with Mr. Forbes himself.

HAPPY THOUGHTS

Leland Forbes was quite as happy as Jeanette and more amazed. That he would ever become the least interested in any woman was beyond his belief. That he would fall suddenly and sincerely in love all in a few days, seemed an impossibility even then, when he knew that it was true . . .

He pictured an ideal life with Jeanette Morse if he could prevail upon her to marry him. He would go on and on writing his profitable volumes about bird lore, she would go on making photographs and drawings to illustrate them—and life would be ideal.

More happy days went by. Old Mose cleaned and pressed his black suit to look nice while serving luncheons and Violet struggled gloriously to prove that she was a marvelous cook.

One morning Forbes, meeting Jeanette at the hotel as usual, suggested a picnic.

"I never met you before," he told the girl.

Today's installment of "Heart of a Wife" and the concluding installment of "Murder of the Night Club Lady" appear on other pages.

"We'll go up to Chimney Rock. I suppose there are plenty Chimney Rocks—each of Carolinas have one, but this one here is beautiful."

"I'll go anywhere you say, Leland," Jeanette told him. He looked at her.

"We will discuss that at length a little later, my dear," he said and Jeanette knew well enough that wherever Chimney Rock might be, it was there that Leland would propose.

"What birds today?" she asked.

"Love birds."

They drove up and around the climbing, winding road until they could go no further in the car. Leland took the hamper and they made the top afoot.

"What scenery!" Jeanette exclaimed, honestly enraptured by the view down the valley where Reed Creek wound in and out and flat bottom lands broke into sharp ledges.

PLAN MARRIAGE

"The most beautiful scenery in the world," Leland assured her. She glanced down at him and he was staring at her.

"Look!" she said pointing to the hamlet of Kent's Mills and beyond the town of Wytheville.

"I am looking with all my eyes."

He was, but he was looking at her.

"I mean the scenery, Leland."

He continued to stare at her.

"Am I the scenery, Leland?" she asked.

"You are all the scenery. I wish to see for the rest of my life, Jeanette, you are all the world to me, dear. How can I let you go?"

"Do you have to?" she asked, softly.

Afterwards she declared that the words just came out involuntarily.

"I shall never let you go, dearest."

On the way home they planned for an early marriage. Forbes left Jeanette at her hotel and was singing all the way back to his home. When he got there Mose brought in the mail that had been left outside.

Forbes recognized the handwriting on one letter and a little frown of anxiety came to his face as he ripped open the envelope and read:

"Life is unbearable. Leland. You will have to come. I cannot go on without you.

"LOLA."

And Leland Forbes knew that he would have to go!

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

The State Theater at Washington, Pa., where the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club has been meeting every Saturday morning was in ruins today following a fire early Tuesday morning. It was one of the most beautiful theaters in the Pittsburgh area and the hundreds of boy and girl members of the Komic Club learned of their loss with keen regret.

John H. Harris, vice president of Warner Brothers for the Pittsburgh area, speaking of the club activities, said: "Just as soon as it's humanly possible M. M. Wear, the manager and myself will get together and arrange a place for the club to assemble, so that none of the youngsters will miss the enjoyment of these Saturday morning meetings, which I know they all look forward to."

WNBO DAMAGED

The fire also damaged Radio Station WNBO, which is operated by the Spriggs-Simplex Radio Laboratories, which broadcast the club meetings every Saturday morning from the stage of the State Theater.

Flora Finesilver, of Squirrel Hill, the youngest dancing teacher in the Pittsburgh district, staged and directed the revue at the Schenley Theater last Saturday. Miss Finesilver, who is only 14, had the following pupils from her dancing school with her: Betty Ann Malone, Jane Young, Rhoda May Smith, Miriam Weinberger, Mendale Weinberger, Vivian Sultano, Katherine Mitchel, Louisa Shelton and Selma Pluchesky. Mrs. Finesilver and Miss Ellen Moorhead were the accompanists.

PUTS ON SHOW

Morty Henderson, manager of the Etna Harris Theater, turned the meeting over to Little Dave Jeffrey, that popular master of ceremonies from the Schenley Theater, who took charge and presented for the entertainment of the members of the Etna Harris Chapter his entire stage show comprising pupils from Vera Liebau's studio. Those taking part in the stage show were Donna Simakas, Russell Hoeltje, Jane Neff, Helen Simakas and Dave Jeffrey. The show closed with the entire company doing a military routine which the youngsters of Etna, Millvale, Aspinwall and Sharpsburg enjoyed very much.

The complete list of "Official Reporters" which was to have appeared in today's Sun-Telegraph due to the holiday Monday, will not appear until tomorrow.

LAMAR'S CITY CLERK KNOWS HIS EMILY POST!

(From the Lamar, Mo. Democrat)

City Clerk Wilson and Mrs. Wilson were taking in a picture show a few nights ago. The squawkie was reeling along without a hitch, when, of a sudden, Lonnie leaned over and whispered to the Missus, "There's a mouse up my pants leg, what will I do?"

"For gosh sakes, don't have a fit," she replied.

Lonnie reached down and seized the mouse with a firm grasp. When he released his hold mister mouse socked his teeth into the flesh of the leg. This would have upset most anybody, but not E. A. He took a fresh grip. When he let loose again the spirit of the mouse suffered a broken neck.

There is an example of self-control that would be hard to parallel.

Enough Talk

Now Let the County Commissioners Reach a Decision On the Wabash Tunnel Plan

The public hearing on the Wabash Bridge and tunnel project, scheduled for this afternoon by the County Commissioners, is the third that they have granted.

The advocates of the proposal that the county acquire and develop this artery of communication between the downtown section of the city and the southwestern part of the county have had abundant opportunity to present their arguments and have done so.

The opponents of the project have had ample opportunity to submit their views.

The county engineers have had plenty of time to study the scheme and report on its feasibility.

The commissioners have been furnished ample data concerning the financial aspect of the matter—the cost of the project and the amount of new taxes that could be expected as the result of the increase it would effect in real estate values.

No good purpose will be served in prolonging the study.

Nothing worth while will be accomplished by repetition of the arguments.

The commissioners should reach a decision.

A Promising Project

Father Cox Is Promoting a Fine Philanthropy in His Farming Community for Needy Families.

Father Cox continues to win admiration by the energy and resourcefulness with which he applies himself to relieving the distress of the unemployed. While others hesitatingly formulate plans, and cautiously weigh this and that consideration, the indefatigable priest acts.

His latest venture, the establishment of a farming community for needy families on a tract of 35 acres, appropriately called "Coxtown," on the Kittanning Pike, gives every promise of success.

Many millions of Pennsylvanians have gained a living from the soil, have wrested from the earth not only a livelihood for themselves but the means of raising, clothing and educating large families of children. What they have done other Pennsylvanians, debarred from their customary employment in mill, mine and factory, should also be able to do.

A vegetable garden, a cow and a few chickens will go a long way towards relieving people from the necessity of appealing for public charity.

By showing the unemployed how they can help support themselves, Father Cox's farming community will make a notable contribution towards the solution of the country's most pressing problems.

The Relief Conference

Serious Difficulties Stand in the Way of the Formulation of a Program.

The difficulties that will have to be overcome by the political leaders meeting in Harrisburg today with Gov. Pinchot before a satisfactory relief program can be formulated are of the most serious character.

Strong objection has come from the rural sections against the imposition of any new state taxes. These sections, not so hard hit by the slump in business as the cities, are not sympathetic toward the proposal that the Commonwealth appropriate additional money for the relief of the unemployed. They desire the cities to take care of their destitute without state aid.

Cities such as Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Erie cannot take care of their destitute unaided, however, because practically their only source of revenue is the tax on real estate, already heavier than many property owners can bear.

Nevertheless the demand has also gone forth from certain interests in the cities that state taxes shall not be raised.

How the Commonwealth can disburse money for poor relief without raising it by taxation is the insoluble problem that confronts the conferees.

Hiding Behind Children

Communist Propaganda Should Be Combatted in the Public Schools.

A Communist meeting in McKeesport Monday was opened by children, who sang songs ridiculing President Hoover and city officials.

Another example of the same sort of thing is described by the writer of an article in the current number of the Forum, who studied social conditions in a coal mining village near Pittsburgh. She tells of the activities of the Young Communists' League in this vicinity and of an expedition into the city on which children were sent. Some of their revolutionary songs are presented.

The use of children for propagating their doctrines has apparently become a regular part of the Communist strategy.

Children can revile the government without danger of being mobbed or imprisoned.

There is a way in which the propaganda can be combatted. Children are required to attend school. The public schools are under the control of the government and the parochial schools are loyal. Let the police take the names and addresses of juvenile Communist demonstrators and inform the school authorities of the need of instilling in them love of country and respect for our form of government.

Audit Squires' Books

Checking of the Accounts of Justices of the Peace Should Not Be Neglected.

The assertion is made that the books of justices of the peace are supposed to be audited annually by the County Controller, but that the work has been neglected.

In some cases, it is reported, several years have been allowed to elapse without any checking by the Controller of the accounts of certain squires.

If the facts are as stated, an explanation is in order—and not only an explanation but also action.

Too many official accounts in Allegheny County have gone unaudited, as conditions now being exposed by the Board of County Commissioners as they delve into the books of their predecessors bear witness.

Open That Draught!

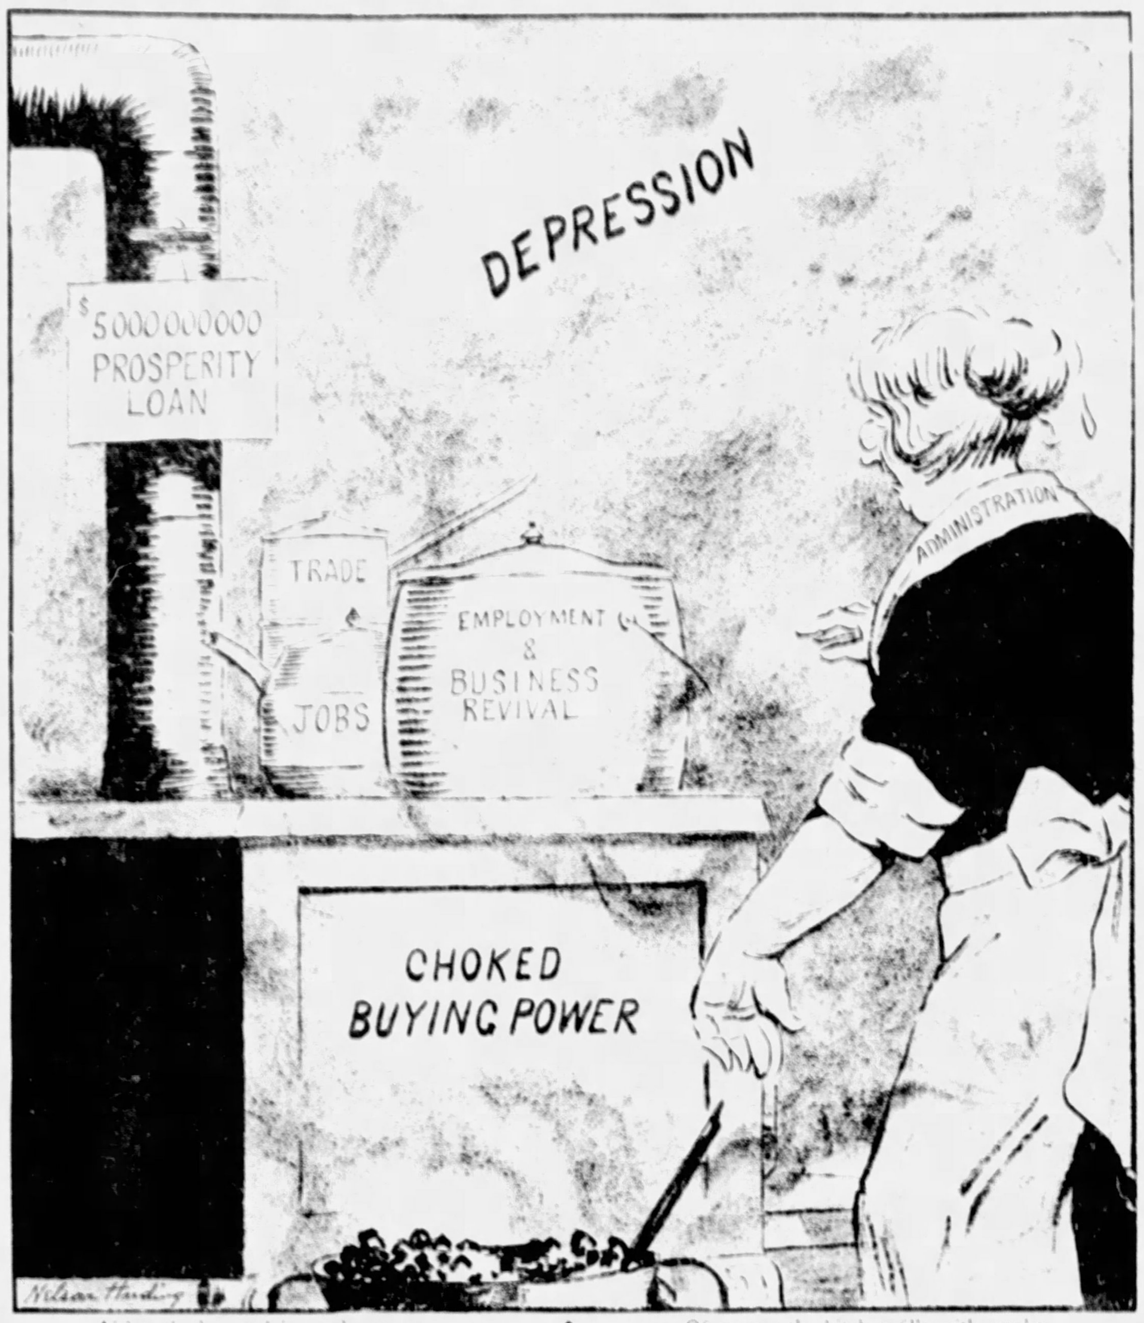
By Nelson Harding



Although the meal is on the stove
The fire will not burn,
And that's because the cook has failed
To give the draught a turn.

Of course, the kitchen fills with smoke
Because the draught is closed.
The cook could turn the damper "ON"
If she were so disposed.

Canada Used Liquor Control to Finance Unemployment Relief

By M. GRATTEN O'LEARY

Noted Canadian Journalist

(This is the second in a series of three articles by this noted Canadian observer, on the Canadian control of the liquor traffic. In his first article he proved from the official Dominion records how revenue from the government control of the liquor traffic materially reduced taxes, avoided government deficits and was a material factor in revenue raising and a boon to every taxpayer. His third article will appear shortly.)

GOVERNMENT control of the sale of liquor is proving more than a financial sheet anchor for Canadian provinces. According to a report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics (an official government organization), it brought $43,000,000 into the federal treasury last year, KEPT DOWN GENERAL TAXATION, and PRACTICALLY FINANCED THE DOMINION'S PROGRAM OF UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF.

Dominion revenue from liquor is, in fact, greater than the combined liquor revenue of the provinces. Thus, while provincial liquor profits over the last five year period have totaled $152,000,000 the revenues of the Dominion from liquor taxes reached $252,000,000. For all governments—Dominion and provincial—the total of liquor income was $405,000,000.

This takes in but five years. Going back 10 years, and taking in the government control system from its inception, the total of Dominion revenue from liquor is $399,000,000.

WHAT this revenue from liquor has meant and means to the Dominion's financial structure, and to its taxation, may be realized by a glance at the federal record of surpluses and deficits during this 10-year period. Between 1922 and 1932 Canada had three years which produced a deficit, seven which produced a surplus, this leaving a FAVORABLE BALANCE FOR THE DECADE OF THIRTY MILLION DOLLARS.

Without liquor receipts, or, to state the position in another way, with prohibition, THERE WOULD HAVE BEEN A DEFICIT OF ABOUT $370,000,000, or there would have been need for a drastic heightening of general taxation.

Federal revenue from liquor, indeed, has been more than enough to take care of all the deficits from the country's publicly-owned railway system; almost enough to finance a great portion of the railway's capital expenditures.

In nine years the Canadian National Railways, taking account of their interest charges, have lost $131,000,000. The Dominion government could have paid this loss out of liquor receipts and still have had $242,000,000 left with which to take care of other accounts.

Only two taxes in Canada—the sales tax and the income tax—bring in more of revenue than the liquor tax. During the past two years, however, 1930 and 1931, the liquor tax brought in more than the sales tax, and it has always produced more than the tax on individual incomes. The tax on individual incomes in Canada has ranged between 15 and 20 millions a year. If, therefore, liquor revenues were lost, and it became necessary to make up what they contribute by some other tax, the probability is that the tax on incomes in Canada would have to be doubled, and certainly increased substantially above their present scale.

MOREOVER, experience has shown that revenue from liquor taxes stands up against depression better than revenue from other taxes. Thus, while revenue from a 1 per cent sales tax fell from 44 millions in 1930 to but 20 millions in 1931, a drop of more than 50 per cent, liquor receipts only fell off by 25 per cent.

What this liquor revenue has meant to the Dominion government these past two years is that it has been able, without much resort to higher taxation, TO FINANCE AN AMBITIOUS PROGRAM OF UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF. The receipts from liquor taxation paid the entire cost of the outlay for unemployment in 1931, and had $8,000,000 to spare. For Dominion and the provinces together combined expenditure on relief works and for direct relief was $76,000,000, combined federal and provincial liquor receipts were $73,000,000.

One of the best features of liquor revenue, from a taxation standpoint, is that it is relatively painless, that this tax, in the last analysis, is paid voluntarily, paid without thought, and frequently without knowledge on the part of the liquor consumer.

THE Dominion government has built up a very simple yet complete system to collect the revenue.

There is an excise duty on spirits of $9 per gallon. The customs duty on imported spirits is $10 per gallon (this to give the Canadian distiller a protection of $1 per gallon).

Thus, when a Canadian goes into a government liquor store and purchases a bottle of Canadian whisky for $4, $2.25 of this amount is a tax. If he should happen to buy a bottle of Scotch or Irish whisky at $4, then the tax on the bottle is $2.50.

Even then, the distiller, whether in Scotland, Ireland, or Canada doesn't get the balance. There has to be taken from what is left the selling charges, the operating costs and the very considerable profits of the various liquor commissions.

When a United States' bootlegger lands a cargo from rum row, avoids all taxation upon it, and disposes of it at prices ranging from between $4 and $6 a quart, his profits are considerable. He is putting INTO HIS POCKET what, IN CANADA, goes into the treasuries of the Dominion and provincial governments.

Canadian governments and the Canadian people derive direct and considerable benefit from this liquor revenue, and the gain is not being achieved at the moral expense of the nation.

Liquor consumption in Canada and drunkenness in Canada are actually on the decrease. The official proof of this, set out by the Dominion bureau of statistics, will be told in the next article.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Unfettered Soul

This is the time of year when a man prepares to put the "wife and kiddies" on the train for the country, with very mixed feelings and a lot of misgiving.

* * *

Just at first he knows he is going to be awfully blue and lonesome and neglected, and he feels rather sorry for himself. All alone in a city apartment—from Monday to Friday!

* * *

But, after a few days of restaurant breakfasts and untrammeled freedom when he finds that he hasn't perished of starvation or anything, he sits up, begins to take notice, stretches out from his long matrimonial cramp, and discovers what a fettered soul he has been!

Life, after all, has its compensations! Oh, joy! He doesn't have to get up in the morning until he FEELS like it!

* * *

He can turn over on his good ear and take another beauty-nap, and nobody will wail that the toast is getting cold or that he'll be late at the office.

* * *

He can drink two full cups of strong black coffee in the morning—and do his own worrying without being reminded of the doctor's orders.

* * *

He can kick off his slippers and drop his pajamas in the middle of the floor, and know that he will find them right there when he comes back. * * *

He can splash around under the shower to his heart's content, sing at the top of his voice, and fling the wet towels all over the place—and LEAVE them there!

He can linger over his morning newspaper and let his eggs get cold, and rush off without his rubbers, and without having to kiss anybody good-bye or answer any last-minute questions.

* * *

He can take his pretty secretary out to lunch—or ANYBODY'S pretty secretary, for that matter—without the haunting fear of being discovered and misunderstood.

* * *

He can linger over his desk until midnight or make a dozen detours on the way home without glancing at his watch or feeling that the dinner is getting cold and the "Little Woman" is getting hot while they wait. And he can waver home at 2 a. m., let himself in boldly and noisily, and clump up the stairs, without running into a human questionnaire!

* * *

Oh, yes, from Monday to Friday, he is an UNFETTERED SOUL! And yet everybody feels SORRY for him!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 1. — Wall street, once the liveliest spot in daylight hours, has become depressingly drab. Activity that geysered into the furious fume of its manhole jets has vanished. Tickers tick hopefully but board rooms are deserted. The last of the loyalists have deserted.

Restaurants, catering to noonday trade, are ghostly with empty white table tops. Thousands who, since the crash, went to the financial district merely as a gesture until things righted, have finally abandoned daily trips. Those who have not jumped from windows are in seclusion.

For months Wall street expected the turn upward that did not come. Today hope has so waned that many in a position to know say it will be four years before Wall street comes back. Some 20,000 men and women who thought themselves secure, are without jobs in the area.

Many brokerage houses have weathered the cyclone but are manned by scant handfuls. Where there were a dozen or more telephone operators there is but one. Those long distance connections with San Francisco, Boston and Chicago by the mere lift of a receiver are discontinued.

An important broker tells me on a day recently his sales for the day were a little more than $50. On a similar day three years ago sales totaled $423,000. As goes Wall street, so goes its army of small tradesmen whose livelihood depends on the street's prosperity.

So true is this that the vacancies among small shops is nearly 50 per cent. The most pessimistic in Wall street believe the worst is over, but dread the future. "Burnt children fear the fire!" Wall street's next prosperity depends on new and trusting crops of investors. Lambs to be shorn!

* * *

So many tortuous twists of streets downtown would have delighted Dickens—charming cul de sacs entirely lost in the Manhattan shuffle, footpaths back to the long ago. They have the almost forgotten flavor of less time-clocked days when there was leisure in the world, when one paid a visit to a poem or could stay a week-end in a tale. On Beaver street I saw a wooden Indian cigar sign and on Bridge a rusted foot scraper, and on another sequestered by-path an old-fashioned cellar door with a ring-lift of iron. Dead worlds sifting through now!

* * *

Among the foibles of New York's Rue de la Paix—Fifty-seventh street—this morning was a gentleman who if not Peggy Joyce's ex-husband, the blond Count Morner, was his double, wearing a pale green shirt with an autumnal brown tie. And what is more, the cuffs were of the same autumnal brown. So what!

* * *

Park Row has until lately had an especial tug for newspaper men. But it is mottled now like the Bowery's leprous landscape. All the print shops have scattered. Ham and Dolan's is a memory. Buildings are shabby. Only good old Doc Perry's remains, still bright with customary drugstore glitter, but for many somehow stained with the ineradicable bitterness of neglect.

When Park Row was my top-o'-the-world, Frank O'Malley and Ed Hill were the best known reporters in town, writing unsigned pieces for the morning Sun. The terrible World twins—Joe Jeff O'Neill and Don Clarke—were giving Herbert Bayard Swope a daily headache. Irvin Cobb was authoring a daily humorous column for the Evening World. Goldberg's "Ike and Mike" convulsed the town. Bennett was inviting managing editors by cable to Paris to enjoy the sadistic pleasure of firing them. It was a pre-emptory generation of square-shooting newspapermen, sometimes hard-drinking and brusque among themselves, but always decent, a gallant contribution to the Fourth Estate.

Reuben, de luxe delicatessner, is said to get along with less sleep than anyone in the night life hoope-dee-do. His busiest hours are from 1 to 6 a. m. He generally retires around 10 a. m., sleeps two hours and sleeps another two hours between the dinner hour and midnight and has been following this program for years. Like Napoleon, he can sneak off for a five-minute nap at will.

On a block in East 62nd street this afternoon a platinum blonde with a come-hither look led a young fox on a beaded leash. I circled skittishly. I have a sharp memory of boyhood days on a Missouri farm when I approached a fox dangling in a trap, which wasn't pas-t! a fox any more than anything.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

How wise are mothers? Does a miasis automatically acquire wisdom with the birth of a child? And is an ounce of "mother instinct" worth a ton of spinster education?

Representative Beck, of Pennsylvania, thinks she does, and it is. Recently he made a speech before Congress in which he assailed government bureaus in general, and the Maternity Bureau in particular. Why, he asked, should the wonderful American mother need a federal bureau to tell her how to raise little Jimmy?

"MY OWN BELIEF," said he, "IS THAT THE UNMARRIED LADIES WHO RUN THE MATERNITY BUREAU CAN'T TELL THE AMERICAN MOTHER ANYTHING."

He's probably right in part of that statement. Jehova, Himself, couldn't tell some mothers anything, so assured are they of their own perfection. But that does not imply that they don't need telling.

Every day I am more convinced that motherhood is the most important, most noble job on earth, but I am also convinced that mothers as a class, are the most ignorant, inefficient and often criminally careless of all workers on earth.

But don't mothers love their children and sacrifice for them? They do indeed, tenderly and heroically—to the death! But what has that to do with the question?

LOVE IS A BEAUTIFUL THING, BUT IT IS NOT AND CANNOT BE A SUBSTITUTE FOR TRAINED BRAINS. And mothers need training as much as any other class of workers.

Mother instinct! Piffle! Why should a couple of hours in an obstetrical ward equip a female with a course in dietetics, a knowledge of child psychology and physiology, and a working familiarity with the world of her day? And how can she rear her child properly unless she has such information?

The answer is that it doesn't, and she can't.

SENTIMENTAL THEORY AND MAMMY SONGS TO THE CONTRARY, CHILD-BIRTH DOES NO MORE FOR A WOMAN'S BRAINS THAN CALF-BIRTH DOES FOR A COW'S.

Cow instinct is sufficient in a cow world. The cow mother, loving, licking and in due time weaning her calf, amply fulfills all her maternal requirements—bovine life being uncomplicated by social obligations. But mother instinct is not sufficient in a human world.

And the mother who brings no more than affection and "mother instinct" to her job produces only a stupid animal, often a dangerous animal—not a civilized being.

What is responsible for the juvenile crime wave?

THE BLUNDERS OF SILLY, SELFISH, IGNORANT, ARROGANT MOTHERS CAUSE IT!

And who is responsible for such qualities in mothers? You and I are responsible. Instead of treating mothers like human beings, and judging their service by the tests which we apply to any other human performance, we have sentimentalized over motherhood.

AS A RESULT, ANY STUPID LITTLE SAP WHO GIVES BIRTH TO A CHILD AUTOMATICALLY ACQUIRES THE STATUS OF A SAINT—AND GETS BY WITH MURDER.

THIS COUNTRY WILL NEVER BE EITHER SAFE OR CIVILIZED UNTIL IT STOPS REVERING MOTHERHOOD PER SE, AND INSISTS ON ADEQUATE PERFORMANCE.

And regardless of Representative Beck's opinion, one educated, childless spinster, who has been trained in child physiology and psychology, knows more about the proper raising of kids than a million moron mammas.
